Balloonist Falls 50 ft.

Escapes With His Life

Thrilling Mishap Follows Attempt to Make Balloon Ascension at Fair Grounds Wednesday when Rope Holding Parachute and Two Men Breaks

A balloonist, known as "Chubby" Cook, had a miraculous escape from being crushed to death when he fell a distance of 50 feet from his balloon in an attempt to make an ascension at the fair grounds Wednesday afternoon. A companion, who expected to make the ascension in the same balloon also fell but had reached only a height of about 6 feet. Fortunately, Cook was only painfully bruised and sustained a cut in the scalp in the fall, which was broken considerably by the parachute, although the distance was too short to allow this contrivance to open.

The Rope Breaks

It appears that the rope which released the parachute was partially cut by bystanders stepping on it while the balloonists were preparing to make the flight. Cook left the ground first and when he had reached a height of 50 ft. the rope attached, drew his companion off the ground.. The added weight was too much for the partially severed rope and it parted. The crowd was horror struck to see the balloonist shooting towards the earth and expected to see him dashed to death. However, it was announced that both men will again atempt the ascension this afternoon.

STOCKUM FUNERAL

The last sad rites over the remains of Forrest Stockum, the fifteen year old son of Attorney and Mrs. Elisha Stockum of Wassau, Wis., were conducted from the home of the lad's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Miller on South Tenth street yesterday afternoon. Interment took place in South Lawn cemetery.

Fred Hawk of the veinity of Fresno, route 3, who is suffering from typhoid fever, continues seriously ill.

MRS. WIGGINS IS ADJUDGED INSANE

Mrs. Jennie Wiggins, formerly of West Lafayette was adjudged insane by Judge Ashman in probate court Wednesday morning and committed to the Massillon asylum. She was taken to that place by Deputy Sheriff James McDonald during the day.

The affidavit against Mrs. Wiggins was filed by her brother Harry Smith. She is said to have had a mania for carrying a large number of bundles about with her and had the delusion that she was very wealthy. Drs. Keelan and Cone conducted the examination.

LOSES A HORSE.

Garfield Woods lost a draft horse several days ago, valued at $175. The animal had a leg broken while in pasture and had to be shot. Mr. Woods has been particularly unfortunate, having lost three horses and a mule during the past year

Experiment Station Exhibit Splendid One

The tent which houses the exhibit from the Wooster experiment station at the fair had many interested visitors especially among the farming people, throughout the day. Wednesday all kinds of products raised on Ohio soil were shown as well as the insects and worms which work their destruction.

Neatly Arranged

Everything is arranged in glass cases and vials showing just how much corn under certain conditions can be raised to the acre. Wheat is shown in the same way. The value of different kinds of phosphate as it affects the soil is also shown and described.

Lectures Are Given

Throughout the day lectures and demonstrations are given which will be of very material help to the agricultural people. No doubt today this feature of the fair will prove a big drawing card as it is not only interesting to farm people but many city people as well.

Caring For Fruit Trees

The handling, caring and spraying of fruit trees is also taken up at length and demonstrations given showing how insects which seek to destroy the fruits and the trees can be coped with.

Zachariah Bush Called to Reward

Zachariah Bush, one of the well known citizens of the western part of the county died last evening at his home two miles south of Mohawk after an extended illness of dropsy. For the past two years Mr. Bush had been in failing health but for the past few months his condition had been serious. The ravages of the disease, together with his advanced age, 82 years, made recovery impossible and the end came last evening about 5 o'clock.

Zachariah Bush was a native of Coshocton county having been born in the vicinity of West Bedford. The greater part of his life was pent in the vicinity of his birthplace.

Mr. Bush was twice married and his second wife, formerly Margaret Billman, together with the children of both the first and second marriages survive as follows: John Bush of Colorado, Mrs. Agnes Barret, Mrs. Neptune and Mrs. John Kuhn all of Warsaw, Jabetz and Grant Bush both in the west, Benjamin Bush, Ninid C. Bush, Minnie Bush and Zachariah Bush. Two brothers John of Des Moines, Iowa, N. C. Bush of S. Seventh street Coshocton one sister Mrs. William Wheeler of Oklahoma and a half-brother Lincoln Bush of Knoxville, Ia., also survive.

Funeral arrangements had not been made last evening but services will probably be held Friday and interment will take place in the cemetery at the Mohawk Baptist church.

SPLENDID EXHIBITS AND IDEAL WEATHER

PENNSY TRAIN STRIKES AUTO; TWO ARE KILLED

Columbus, O., Oct. 11 -An auto belonging to Harry Armstrong, a farmer of near London, O., was struck by eastbound Panhandle train No. 20 at a crossing near West Jefferson tonight and both Armstrong and his wife were crushed to death.

Suspended Sentence for John Smith

A suspended sentence of six months in the Canton works house was drawn by John Smith, aged 23, in juvenile court Wednesday upon pleading guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Edna Mae Graham of the Isetta vicinity. The comparitively light sentence and subsequent suspension was passed by Judge Ashman owing to the fact that a thorough investigation showed extenuating circumstances connected with the case.

Willing to Wed

Although Smith freely admitted that he wronged the girl, he showed a disposition to do the right thing by marrying her. This, however, she refused to agree to and it was also developed that despite the girl's tender age, she has had illicit relations with several other youths of her home community. Smith made arrangements to pay the costs of the case and should he as agreed, conduct himself properly in the future, will not need to serve the time.

HERE FOR FAIR

Several members of the Coshocton colonly located at Cuyahoga Falls, O., have arrived to attend the fair and spend the remainder of the week with relatives and friends. They are: Robert Ryan and family, formerly of the northern part of the county; Mr. and Mrs. Will Overholt, formerly of this city and Hugh Endsley and Joe Karr, formerly of Keene.

Made Opening Day of County Fair an Auspicious Exent Wednesday--Today is "Big" Day and Record Crowd is Looked for

An average Wednesday crowd was on hand to enjoy the attractions on opening day of the county fair yesterday. The weatherman was on his good behavior and the day was an ideal one while the track was in fine shape. The speed events were interesting as a rule and gave promise of one of the best race meets ever held in the city.

Today is the "big" day of Coshocton county's annual exposition. The exhibits and other attractions are on the ground and with another day of ideal weather, which is promised in the forecast, the crowd should prove a record breaker. A resume of the various exhibits on the grounds is given as follws:

THE GRANGE DISPLAY

The grange display at the fair this year has been attracting much attention. Fresno grange, Nellie grange and Oak Grove grange each have excellent displays. All sorts of farm products of the very finest that the county affords are to be found here. Grain of every sort, vegetables, nuts, canned goods, home made bread, cakes, jellies, country butter, and many other good things to eat are to be found in the display. The needle work is also an important part of each exhibit. Many beautiful quilts together with hand embroidery, drawn work and handmade lace are also to be found in greater or less abundance in each grange exhibit. The grange exhibits were each artistically arranged. In the Fresno grange section of the building the grange motto, set above the grange emblem (wheat and a sickle) in tiny red and green apples made an attractive background for the exhibit. The initial letters for Faith, Hope, Charity and Fidelity were used beneath the emblem.

The Nellie grange had an especially interesting collection of historical relics, arrow heads, candle sticks, an old hominy mortar, an old fashion d tar-bucket, candle moulds and numerous other things that one could well have spent an afternoon looking over.

The Oak Grove grange had a splendid display of home baked things and an unusually interesting exhibit of fine needle work. The arrangement of the corn display here was attractive, the bright yellow ears being set against a background of ever green with an effect that attracted attention to the display from every part of the building. In the midst of the fine ears of corn shown here was displayed the silver cup won by B. O. Stingle of the Oak Grove grange for the best yield record on a field of corn--the cup was awarded by the Ohio Corp Improvement Association.

IN "PUMPKIN HALL"

The display of fruits of every kind raised in the county, together with all sorts of vegetables, canned fruit, a splendid exhibit of delicious looking home made cakes, bread, butter, jelly, preserves, pickles etc. to be found in "pumpkin hall" was indeed one of the best ever shown at a Coshocton county fair. The fact that all exhibitors here are Coshocton county people adds much to the keen but friendly competition for premiums. One particularly satisfactory display this year is the fine apples of every variety found both in the grange display and the farmer's exhibit. It is gratifying to know that with the care that Coshocton county farmers have been endeavoring to give their trees for the last few years, the yield will increase and prove that Ohio can produce apples that will bear comparison with any fruit.

IN THE AUDITORIUM

In the auditorium the floral displays made by the Coshocton florists attracted much attention. A one exhibit a clever horn of plenty, fashioned from white carnations and filled with fresh fruit was an interesting addition to the collection of pants and cut flowers. The individual floral display was to be found in the same booth with the needlework, and the ferns and cut flowers shown here were unusually pretty.

As is generally the case the

Artery in Wrist Cut with Knife

George Taylor of Davis Hollow, near Conesville, accidentally cut an ugly gash in his left wrist with a knife Wednesday.

Taylor was engaged in roofing his house and while cutting material, the knife slipped, cutting a gash, which severed an artery. Dr. Marquand was called and rendered medical aid.

Organize New Grange in Jackson

Deputy Master L. J. Foster the official grange organizer for this county, will hold a meeting in Foster's school house in Jackson township Tuesday evening October 17 for the purpose of organizing a new gange at that place. The farmers of that neghborhood are anxious for a grange and held a meeting themselves some time ago preparatory to organizing. All farmers of the community are urged to attend the meeting and assist Mr. Foster and the other grangers who will be present, in the organization.

THE WEATHER.

FOR OHIO- Fair Thursday and Friday; light variable winds.

WARM CONTESTS RULE AT RACES ON WEDNESDAY

The Large attendance at the fair grounds Wednesday afternoon was treated to an excellent racing bill, each event being hotly contested. Despite the heavy rains for the past week, the track was in excellent condition.

The opening race the 2:12 pace was won in straight heats by Peter Chimes with ease, while the second and third places were hard fought by Albert H. and J. S. D.

The 2:25 trot with nine starters was the most interesting of the afternoon's bill, four different horses taking first place in the first four heats, the race belonging to anyone until the final heat had been finished.. Ohio Axtellion, after finishing 6th, 4th and 6th in the first three heats won the last two.

The 2:30 pace was also made in fast time, Hal Nuthurst, the winner making three great finishes, in the last three heats, winning over Col. Johnson in the final heat in a great finish. Esther K. driven by Chas Sells the local trainer and driver gave him considerable trouble, and was drawn after the finish of the third heat.

The bill for this afternoon should prove even better than yesterdays's having four races, all of them with a large number of entries. Because of the long program the races this afternoon will begin at 12:30.

Wednesday's results were as follows.

Auto Strikes Lad Breaking His Leg

Arthur Blackson, Aged 9, Jumps from Wagon Directly in Path of Machine on South Seventh St. and is Seriously Hurt

Arthur Blackson, aged 9 years, the son Elmer Blackson of Byesville, O. had his right leg broken just above the ankle and a gash, four inches long cut in his scalp, when struck by an automobile on South Seventh street Wednesday evening.

Failed To Dodge

The lad, with several of his companions, was on his way from the fair grounds to the home of James Rodgers on Elm street, where he and his parents are visiting. The lads were riding on the back of a wagon and as they reached the Elm street corner, jumped off directly in the path of the auto, which was being driven by Harry Baleh. Although it had grown dusk, the lights on the machine were lit and Baleh saw the danger. The other boys dodged out of the way but the Blackson lad was struck, despite the driver's efforts to avoid him.

Wheel Runs Over Leg

The boy was struck by a fender and thrown to the pavement. Apparently a wheel passed over his leg breaking the bone. The victim was carried to the Rodgers home and Dr. J. D. Lower summoned who reduced the fracture and also gave the scalp wound attention.

William Shaw of Pittsburg will spend a few days at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Macrachee Shaw on Walnut street.

Band Concert This Evening

The Coshocton Imperial Band will give a concert on the streets Thursday evening at 6:30 under the direction of Conductor Manuel Yingling. Their program will be as follow:

March, Turkish Imperial Guards -Luscomb

Grand Selections from Faust - Gounod.

Experts from "Alma Wo Wohnst du" -Baiquet.

Medley Overture--"The Sunny South" -Lampe.

Two-step "The Winning Fight" Holzman.

BOARD WILL MEET

The quarterly business meeting of the Board of Trustees of the associated charities will be held Friday evening at 7:30 in the club room of the library.

Much Discussion on Fair Association Scrap

The item carried in Wednesday's Tribune, to the effect that a scrap is brewing in the County Fair Association, created considerable discussion among members during the day. Apparently there was some misunderstanding on the part of several persons, the item being misinterpreted as referring to the Fair board, when no such inference should have been drawn. The Tribune did not intimate that there is any dissension among the members of the board, as a perusal of the item will prove and this fact was soon realized by those who had their eyes opened by the rumors of the quiet scheme of a certain crowd to gain a controlling vote at the coming annual election of the association.

Light Onto Scheme

However, this same crowd did not take kindly to the light thrown onto their little scheme and their "innocence abroad" attitude failed to fool anyone. The tactics employed at the last annual election when two members of the board were ousted, will again be brought into play, according to a plan to dy rumored. Towards this end, the "crowd" is figuring on getting as many votes as possible and one man is said to have stated that he expects to spend $50 for membership tickets to be distributed among friends.

Vicious Dog Bites Child's Leg Twice

Joseph Fisher, the seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher of West Chestnut street was bitten twice upon the leg by a dog with which he was playing Wednesday afternoon.

Resuses to be Petted

The dog is owned by Benjamin Dile of Locust street. The Dile suit serves children were walking along Third street near Chestnut, leading the dog by a string when met by the Fisher boy. The lad attempted to play with the dog. No sooner had he touched the animal than it grabbed him in the calf of the leg inflicting two painful wounds. It is not thought the wounds will res

One Exhibitor Takes $1,000 in Prizes at Five Fairs this Year

F. L. Hartline of Strasburg O who takes most of the state fair of surrounding states and an occasional out of the ordinary county fair arrived in Coshocton with a bunch of winning cattle in a special car.

Mr. Hartline has visited four state fairs in Columbus, Ohio, Syracuse, N. Y., Detroit, Michigan and one county fair at Hamilton, Ohio and stated that in the five fairs he won over $1000 in prizes. Mr. Hartline's special car carries 12 choice head of Red Polled Cattle.

Sells The Milk

The milk which is taken from the cows amounts to a considerable sum in cash sufficient to pay for their keep. The milk is sold to stands on the grounds and in this way the great expense in carried by making long jumps over the country and the high price of feed is shaved down considerably.

MARSHALL DISCUSSES CANDIDACY

STATEMENT NO 1

Signed by A M Marshall only, of all the candidates

To the electors of Coshocton county to the people of the State of Ohio and to whom it may concern:

I have already submitted my platform for your consideration and do not desire to change or add to any part of that but I find a great deal of interest manifest among the voters as to the standing of the various candidates on the liquor question

And in order to make it clear as to just where I stand on this question I desire to state that I am the only candidate in this county for delegate to the constitutional convention who had the courage and fairness to sign a statement on this question and file it with my nomination papers as provided by law and I desire now to announce publicly that I stand first, last and all the time upon that statement signed by me and filed with my nomination papers If the other 117 delegates should vote against me I would still stand by my pledge to the voters made as aforesaid

In thus submitting the question of license or no license to the people I am the first and only candidate in this county to give a practical application of the referendum while the other candidates with their much vaunted advocacy of the initiative and referendum have shown themselves unwilling to trust the people with this most important question

I wish to say further that I am willing to trust the people in all political questions as I have done in this instance

The pledge I made and on which I stand and by which I shall stand in the halls of the constitutional convention if elected is as follows

Statement No 1 I hereby state to the people of Ohio, as well as the people of my county that during any incumbency of the office of delegate to the constitutional convention I will always vote for a separate submission to the people as a separate part of the constitution of the alternative questions "Shall the constitution provide for the licensing of the traffic in intoxicating liquors or shall the constitution prohibit the licensing of the traffic in intoxicating liquors

BUTLER

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 11—There is no concealing Cornell's optimism over the football outlook. Coach Reed was highly pleased with the work of the men in the recent game with Allegheny. Although the contest was one sided, the score being 35 to 0, Reed said he was impressed by Cornell's speed and power. Eddie Butler at quarterback played a brilliant game, pulling off some spectacular quarterback runs and kicking both goals, one from placement and one from the field. Experts here predict that Butler will be the kicking sensation of the season. He seems to be getting all the work in the quarterback position. He is playing a sound game this year and is as good as present as when the season closed last year. He is kicking better than ever and is also a good general.

FARMERS' CONGRESS

Lively Tilt Will Come Over the Resolutions Committee.

Columbus, O., Oct. 11.—Probably the most exciting contest of the farmers' national congress, which convenes in Columbus, Thursday, will be when the committee on resolutions will be named. Progressives, reactionaries, conservationists, Taft and anti-Taft men will participate in a lively tilt to name the member from Ohio.

Among the enterprises which are scheduled to be boosted by the convention are: Federal support of the good roads movement, parcels post, conservation of natural resources, improvement of inland waterways, rivers and harbors.

The scope of membership has been materially widened the past year, so that it now includes representatives from granges and farmers' institutes, drain tile manufacturers, fruit and vegetable canners, county agricultural societies and stone quarry companies.

Ohio will have more than half the delegates at the session according to the state board of agriculture. Fully 1500 pledges to attend were received by the state board of agriculture.

Kaiser William Stops the War

Berlin, Oct. 11.—It was declared from an authoritative source that an armistice has been virtually agreed upon by Turkey and Italy, but that it had not yet been decided "officially."

It was brought about chiefly through the efforts of Germany aided by other powers.

Italy continues sending troops to Tripoli, pending the negotiations, but in the meantime it is understood, hostilities will not occur.

FAMOUS DETECTIVE.

WILLIAM J. BURNS

LORIMER PROBE.

State Senator McCormick Denies He Had Been Offered $2,500.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—State Senator George B. McCormick denied the statement that he had been offered $2500 to switch his vote from Albert J. Hopkins, and cast it for William Lorimer. McCormick was the first witness called by the committee of United States senators which is investigating the election of Lorimer.

McCormick had denied already, under oath, the bribe offer, but the senators decided to again question him, following a reiteration of the story by John F. Peffers, formerly private secretary and now law partner of former Senator Hopkins.

Peffers insisted that McCormick told him he had been offered $2500 to vote for Lorimer and that when he refused he had been told he could name his own figure.

McCormick cast the one hundred and eighth vote for Lorimer, thus insuring the senator's election.

As the result of Peffer's testimony four more members of the legislature whom the witness declared he believed had been corruptly influenced will be summoned as witnesses. They had not previously been named in the scandal. The "weak sisters" are: Senator B. F. Downing, Rep., Dixon; Representative Charles L. Fieldstack, Rep., Chicago; Representative Carl S. Burgett, Rep., of Newman; Representative Johnson Lawrence, Rep., of Pelo.

The attitude of the committee following the testimony gave the impression that every member of the legislature who voted for or against Lorimer would be called.

MORE IDLE MEN ARE PREDICTED

Capacity of Production Grows Faster Than Competition.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 11.—"There will be more idle men this winter than ever before," predicted James J. Hill in discussing the condition of business over the country, and particularly in the west.

"This is the reason," continued the chairman of the Great Northwestern railroad: "Our capacity for production along industrial lines has grown faster than our consumption along the same lines.

"Some years ago the farmer had to raise enough to feed his family and another man in the cities. Now he must raise enough for himself and for two other men.

"Business is sound," he said, "but no new enterprises are being started. The politicians and newspapers are to blame. There is too much political ghost-dancing. The people are not given the facts. There is uncertainty as to the future on this account, rather than on account of the supreme court decisions."

Brewers' Convention.

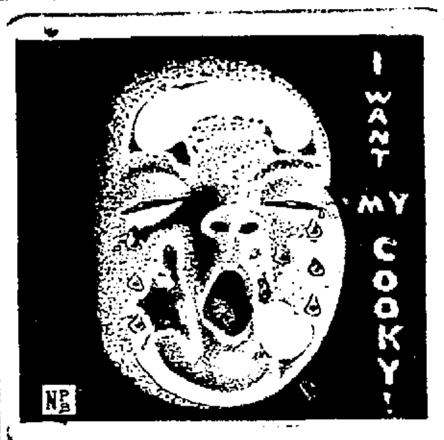

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson is here to take part in the international brewers' exposition and congress, which opens tomorrow at the Coliseum. The brewers worked to such good purpose that the show, the biggest of its kind ever held, was ready for the inspection of the public today. Ten million dollars worth of brewing machinery is in place and half a million dollars worth of ornamentation has been set up to show the machinery off.

Realizes the Hopelessness of Combatting the Italian Navy.

Constantinople, Oct. 11.—Reports are current here in official circles that the sultan, Mohammed V, realizing the hopelessness of combatting the Italian forces in Tripoli owing to the strength of the Italian navy, has resigned himself to the loss of the Turkish territory on the southerly shores of the Mediterranean. His chief recourse will be to diplomatic negotiations in the hope of securing the aid of the powers in forcing a satisfactory settlement with Italy.

DAILY FASHION TALKS

BY MAY MANTON

A SMART FROCK OF PLAIN AND DOTTED LINEN.

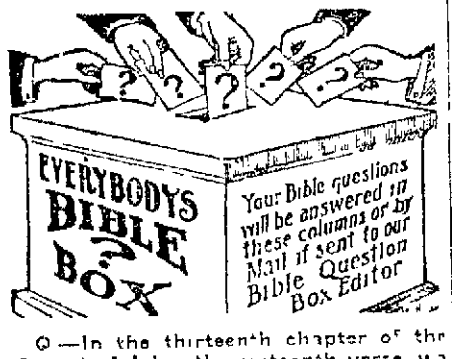

COMBINATIONS of plain and dotted material make exceedingly attractive children's dresses. This one shows the latest features of fashion. It is made with peasant sleeves. There is a panel at the front and the neck can be finished round as in this instance or higher with the standing collar. The short sleeves are loose and are desirable until cold weather, but the dress can be made with those that extend below the elbows which are gathered into bands. Every material that is used for children's wear is appropriate. Galatea, poplin and all fabrics of the kind are much liked. [illegible] is pretty and [illegible]. The dress would be attractive made of that material with the trimming portions of plain color, or with the trimming portions of plaid or the first material and the remainder of the plain. The model can be utilized for cashmere, challis and wool fabrics of the kind also. Plain and figured challis make up charmingly. Cashmere with wool plaid would make an attractive little dress. If liked a patent leather belt can be used instead of one cut from the material. The body and skirt are cut in one piece and the sleeves make a part thereof. The yoke with panel is separate, but when this is joined to the dress there are only under arm seams to be sewed. The closing is made invisibly at the back for the entire length.

For a child of six years of age will be required $3\frac{1}{2}$ yards of material 27, $1\frac{3}{4}$ yards 36 or 44 inches wide with 1 yard of contrasting material 27 inches wide for the trimming.

7074 Child's Dress, 4, 6 and 8 years.

A May Manton pattern No. 7074, sizes 4, 6 and 8 years, will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents.

Q—In the thirteenth chapter of the Gospel of John, the sixteenth verse was read "The servant is not greater than his Lord" and in the next chapter we find these words "Verily verily I say unto you he that believeth on Me the works that I do shall he do also and greater works than these shall he do because I go unto My Father." What are these "greater works," and if the servant can perform greater things than his Master does this not prove that the servant is the greatest?

Answer—Our Lord during His earthly ministry performed a large number of miracles, healing the sick, awakening the dead, stilling the tempest and changing the water into wine, etc. We are convinced that none of our Lord's followers have ever succeeded in accomplishing greater works than these along the same lines. However they have achieved greater things along another line, namely the spiritual one. All will agree that to heal the spiritually sick, to raise the spiritually dead ones and to calm the tempest of the soul is a much greater work than that along merely physical lines. And to this our Master's words doubtless had reference. The Lord's followers could do these more important works only after they had received the holy Spirit which was bestowed upon them when the Lord Jesus had ascended to the Father, as the last words of the verse quoted show. As the servants could accomplish the greater works only by the power of Spirit of the Lord they would not be great of themselves, and hence were not as great as their Master.

RAISING CAPONS IS PROFITABLE

FOWLS OF THIS CLASS GROW FASTER THAN COCKERELS OF SAME AGE

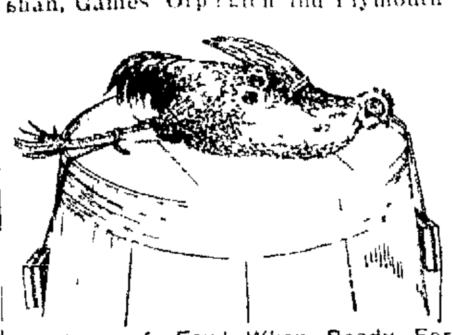

OPERATION IS NOT DIFFICULT

Male Birds From Two to Four Months Old Should Be Selected for Caponizing

The capon [illegible] and acts very much like other kinds of animals that have been castrated. They are lazy and have no tendency to fight other fowls. They seem only to like to eat and grow fat. They grow much faster and fatter than cockerels of the same age. They also become much larger and sell at a higher price per pound.

The Operation

Cockerels from two to four months old and weighing from two to four pounds should be selected. If possible select from the large breeds such as the Brahmas, Cochin, Langshan, Games, Orpington and Plymouth

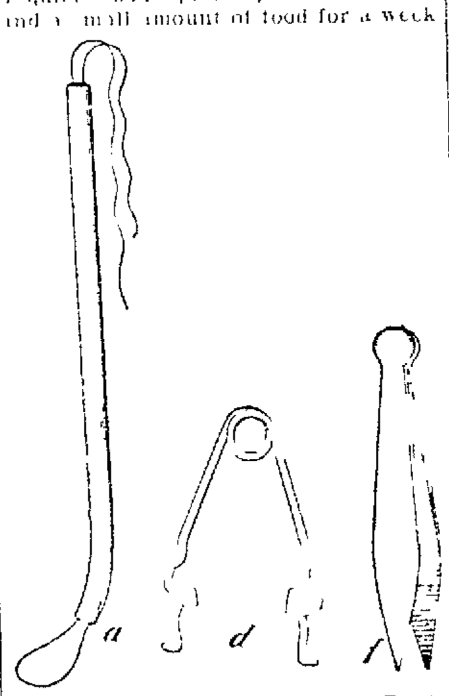

Position of Fowl When Ready For Operation

Rocks. Give the fowl nothing to eat for two days previous to the operation. It should have plenty of water during these days. Lay the fowl on its left side upon a table or barrel. Hang weights from its legs on one side of the barrel and from its wings on the other side.

The feathers over the last two ribs should be moistened with a two per cent solution of creoline and a few of the feathers plucked. Pull the skin towards the hip. With the knife make an incision of about one inch between the first and second ribs. In this incision insert the spreader so that the hook ends will catch between the ribs. Tear away the thin membrane which covers the intestines and the upper testicle will be seen close to the backbone. Push the intestines to one side and slip the wire of the ecraseur over the testicle and gradually saw it loose and remove it from the body. The same should be done with the other testicle. All blood should be absorbed by using disinfected cotton. Great care is needed to avoid cutting an artery just back of the testicles. Remove the instruments and wash the wound with a disinfecting solution.

Care After Operation

MR. MARSHALL'S STATEMENT

There appeared in yesterday morning's issue of The Tribune an article purporting to have been written by a Mr. Marshall who is a candidate for delegate to the constitutional convention. In this article Mr. Marshall states that he has already given out the platform on which he stands and that the article in question was written to express his views specifically on the liquor question.

Now so far as individuals are concerned, it makes not the slightest difference in the world to The Tribune who goes as delegate to the constitutional convention. So far as the individual is concerned it makes no difference to The Tribune who occupies any office within the gift of the people. But as men who seek office are the exponents of certain views and certain principles of government, The Tribune does believe that some men are better qualified to make our laws and fill our offices than certain other men.

And judging Mr. Marshall alone by the statement which he submitted yesterday to The Tribune for publication we do not believe he will prove to be a satisfactory representative of the majority of the voters of this county. In this article he boasts that he is the only one of the three candidates who has the "courage and fairness to sign a statement on this (the liquor) question."

As a matter of fact, The Tribune would commend both of his opponents, Messrs. Staats and Myers, for their courage and fairness in refusing to sign a statement THAT IS SO UNFAIR ON ITS FACE AND SO DECEPTIVE IN ITS PURPOSE AS THE ONE MR. MARSHALL BOATS OF HAVING SIGNED. All along it has been Mr. Marshall's plea that he is the "people's representative" in this fight, yet he now puts himself on record as being the representative of a single organization and of only a handful of the people. By signing this statement Mr. Marshall admits that he is not the representative of the whole people, but of the so-called "Personal Liberty league," the organization behind which the allied liquor interests of the state have masked themselves.

Read the statement which Mr. Marshall boasts of having signed, give it the most superficial analysis and see what it means. The statement as contained in this article is as follows: "Shall the constitution provide for the licensing of the traffic in intoxicating liquors, or shall the constitution prohibit the licensing of the traffic in intoxicating liquors."

That is identically the same fake that the liquor interests worked successfully on the people at the time of the constitutional convention of 1851 and the test of a people's development in self government consists largely in their ability to profit by the mistakes of their fathers. If there were either courage or fairness in the statement which Mr. Marshall boasts of having signed it would read as follows: "SHALL THE CONSTITUTION PROVIDE FOR THE LICENSING OF THE TRAFFIC IN INTOXICATING LIQUORS, OR SHALL THE CONSTITUTION PROHIBIT THE TRAFFIC IN INTOXICATING LIQUORS."

It will be observed that three words are cunningly inserted in the statement which Mr. Marshall imputes so much virtue to himself for having signed and for which he so bombastically denounces his competitors for not having the "courage and fairness" to sign. These three words are THE LICENSING OF. Eliminate those three words and you will have what the people of 1851 thought they were voting on, prohibition or license. And after they had voted they found that they had simply KEPT LICENSE OUT OF THE CONSTITUTION.

In short, the Marshall statement, which is not the voice of Marshall, but the voice of the Personal Liberty league, offers the people of Ohio one of two alternatives on the liquor question: THEY MAY EITHER STAND STILL OR TAKE A STEP BACKWARD.

According to this statement we may stick to what we have, which is already no license. The constitution of 1851 expressly forbids the licensing of the liquor traffic. So we already have that half of Mr. Marshall's statement. It only proposes to grant us what we now have. Its other offer is to go backward. It offers to let the people [illegible] constitution, which is all right, if they want to do so.

But [illegible] the people of this state want to let the liquor question [illegible] as it is in the existing constitution. It may [illegible] clause in the place of the existing [illegible]. Or, it may be that they want neither, but desire a straight-out prohibition clause. They should have, in brief, just what they want, but the statement which Mr. Marshal signs only offers them the alternative of STANDING STILL OR GOING BACKWARD. IT DOES NOT OFFER THEM THE PRIVILEGE OF STANDING STILL OR GOING FORWARD.

In other words, this statemenent is indecisive, temporizing and deceptive. It settles nothing. It satisfies no one but an insignificant minority of voters who are members of the so-called Personal Liberty league. It is unfair to the great mass of voters in the state, perhaps a clear-cut majority who either want the no license clause retained in the constitution, or who, if this clause is to be removed, want it replaced by a straight-out prohibitory clause.

Be this as it may, the only fair thing to do is to submit to the people the right to vote on the thing they want to vote on, LICENSE OR PROHIBITION. To limit them to choosing between what they now have or license is to deny them the right of expression on one-half the main issue and this would be so manifestly unfair as to condemn the statement which Mr. Marshall signed as a plain attempt to catch the people on a piece of deception which was worked over-time more than half a century ago.

So, no one should be deceived by Mr. Marshall's claim that he alone is in favor of the referendum on the liquor question. Both of his competitors in this race also favor the separate submission of the liquor question to the people. THE ONLY DIFFERENCE IS THAT THEY BOTH FAVOR A SUBMISSION THAT IS FAIR, ONE THAT MEANS SOMETHING, ONE THAT WILL SETTLE SOMETHING.

They are both on record as favoring the submission of a straight-out license or straight-out prohibitory clause, without temporizing or evasion. This is what the people want and to this extent they are both "candidates of the people," although we know of neither of them ever having made boasts to that effect or having tried to make political capital out of the term. Standing as he does on this kind of submission Mr. Marshall only proclaims himself the mouthpiece of the ultra-liquor people in their effort to trap the voters into casting their ballots for something they will not get, even though they should be in the majority when the votes are counted.

Chicago thugs kidnaped a Michigan barber, robbed him of $260 and two suits of clothes and tied him to a tree for five hours. "When the men are caught that barber ought to have the privilege of shaving them," declared a Chicago paper. Maybe he had and they took this method of getting even.

We have as yet seen no reliable estimate of the number of converts President Taft has made on his western trip. But if he is satisfied with what he is doing, everyone else ought to be.

Crowds Besiege the Court Room

Los Angeles, Oct. 11. Enormous crowds besieged the courtroom at the formal opening of the trial of the McNamaras, charged with the destruction of the Times building, causing the death of 21 persons on October 10, 1910. All entrances were guarded, and only those with credentials were permitted to enter.

The courtroom is located on the eighth floor of the million-dollar hall of records, and the room was mostly occupied by the desks of newspaper reporters.

The McNamaras brothers were brought from the jail handcuffed to deputies and guarded by city policemen. They expressed confidence in the outcome. Both men have changed since incarceration, especially James, who has lost his former haggard appearance. His clothing was carefully brushed and his linen immaculate.

John, however, was the cynosure of all eyes. He is heavily built with his long, gray tinged hair thrown back on his forehead and his clear-cut, cameo shaped face expressive of the highest intelligence. He smiled and nodded to acquaintances among the newspaper men and said: "I have gained 15 pounds during my confinement and it does not look as though I am worrying much, does it?"

Judge Walter Bordwell, presiding at the trial, is noted as a strict disciplinarian and today the proceedings moved rapidly. As soon as court opened the roll of the remaining 54 members of the initial venire was called.

Ask Judge Changed.

The defense presented the affidavits supporting its formal motion for a change of judges. The affidavits were sworn to by both McNamara brothers and alleged bias and prejudice on the part of Judge Bordwell. The court listened intently, especially to that part where it was alleged that his action in trying to force Attorney Harrington of counsel for the defense to reveal to the grand jury the lines of the defense, was unprecedented and utterly illegal. When the reading was concluded the court immediately denied the motion.

The defense excepted to this ruling, and the first vital step by Attorney Darrow had been taken. The defense alleges that Bordwell's action in disregarding the affidavit of prejudice is certain ground for reversal in case of conviction.

With this matter out of the way, the defense formally announced its demand for separate trials for John and James McNamara.

Confer on Trial Order.

This right was based on the California code which, however, gives the district attorney the right to elect which case shall be tried first. There was a brief interruption while the attorneys conferred in an effort to determine which defendant should face the court first.

At the opening of the trial Attorney Darrow announced that he would early raise the point whether membership in the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association is cause for exclusion from the jury.

Long before the time for the trial to start, a huge crowd assembled in front of the hall of justice, everyone hoping for a seat or at least a glimpse of the accused. Few succeeded in getting inside the court, as there was but room for only a dozen or more, after places had been taken by the lawyers, newspaper representatives and court attaches.

The actual trial will not start until a jury is selected, which will take at least a week, if not more, and probably 300 will be examined before 12 men are found who will be acceptable to both defense and prosecution.

The Streets of Amsterdam.

Amsterdam, in Holland, a city of ten miles in circumference, is mostly built on piles driven into the sandy subsoil, but the dowling of the tide and the debris of the Amstel river have made ninety islands, and the city has more canals than streets. The watery ways are traversed by over 300 bridges, so that Amsterdam has earned the designation of the Venice of the north.

The Usurped Power of the Courts

FREQUENTLY laws which are meant to benefit the public are declared to be unconstitutional by the courts. The courts have no right to do that. That is, the Constitution gives them no such right. And it is the Constitution which the courts say must be kept inviolate when other people are concerned. Congress once forbade the Supreme Court to pass upon a law's constitutionality — and the Supreme Court didn't—the Supreme Court then admitted that it had no right to overrule Congress. Congress can do the same thing now. The story is in Pearson's Magazine for October. You ought to read it. This usurpation of power by the courts is the most important thing for you to know about. It is all being explained in Pearson's Magazine. Read these stories. They are full of facts which you ought to know.

In the same magazine is another story to which you should give serious thought. Half the sickness which comes to your family is unnecessary. Think of that! A National Bureau of Health could prevent unnecessary sickness, yet it is strenuously opposed. Here's the whole story of what a health bureau could do, and why some people oppose it. Another article explains why the price of coffee increases. If you drink coffee, read this story if you read nothing else. Coffee prices haven't quit going up yet. If you want entertainment only, look at this magazine. Just look at it! Eight complete stories of romance, mystery and adventure, besides some articles built only for entertainment—another of the famous Apaches of New York, for instance. These tales of New York's gun-fighters are the best that Alfred Henry Lewis ever told.

Charles G. Gates and His Bride On Wedding Tour In Private Car

WHEN Charles G. Gates arranged to be married to Miss Florence Hopwood of Minneapolis at the home of his bride's uncle, Robert F. Hopwood, at Uniontown, Pa., he engaged the Rev. Dr. J. W. Lorimer of Port Arthur, Tex., to perform the ceremony. There were nearly a hundred guests at the wedding, many of them having made long journeys to attend. Immediately after the wedding dinner Mr. and Mrs. Gates left on their wedding journey in Mr. Gates' private car. They went first to Port Arthur, Tex., and will make a long tour of the United States before returning to New York. The above picture was made as the newly wedded couple stood behind the car only a few minutes before their wedding journey began. This was Mr. Gates' second marriage, his first wife having divorced him after three days before his second marriage. His father, John W. Gates, died recently, leaving a fortune of perhaps $50,000,000, most of which will ultimately go to his son. The young millionaire's wedding gifts to his bride included two diamond rings, a rope of pearls, a pair of diamond earrings and a diamond pin.

THE THEATRE

GREAT POLITICAL PLAY AT SIXTH ST. TONIGHT

Chas. E. Blaney's new production "The Governor and the Boss" is a well constructed drama of love and politics and will have its initial performance here tonight at the Sixth Street Theatre.

The characters are drawn true to life, and the dialogue is terse, blunt and to the point; the situations are cleverly devised, with a view of giving a closer insight into the methods of modern day political leaders. "Big Tim" McDonald, the Boss who dominates the play, is one of the best characterizations. He is a typical "boss" big of frame, burly and domineering, ruling his constituents by brute force and yet beneath that rough exterior the real character of the man reveals itself. His hatred of scheming Mayor Vincent, because of the fact that the latter has caused his separation from his wife and daughter, his determination to defeat Vincent by an alliance with David Graham the independent candidate for Governor and his crushing defeat of the opposition forces are characteristic of the boss and make his the central figure of the drama. Its authors Guy Fletcher Bragdon and William Postance, have striven to bring sharply contrasting characters together in situations full of conflicting emotions and have carried their convictions so strongly that considerable interest is aroused which adds material help to make a semblance of rational proceedings.

"THE GENIUS AND THE MODEL"

"The Genius and the Model," a farce that Nat Goodwin and his former wife Edna Goodrich starred in will provide merry entertainment at the Sixth Street Theatre Friday evening.

The story is that of an idle rich young man who wants to go in for art in order to win a young woman who is seriously infected with the esthetic fever. He makes a compact with a trio of geniuses, a musician, a painter and a sculptor, to have them produce their works over his signature. He is heralded by a conceited critic as a new genius and things go on swimmingly until the genius falls in love with an artist's model. The penalties of fame also begin to [illegible] and in the end his entanglements are disentangled by means of tall lying.

The play is from the pen of Wm. and Cecil DeMille, the authors of "Strongheart," and the first time since its long New York run that the play has been presented at popular prices. The story is interesting from start to finish and affords every member of the company splendid opportunities.

PECK'S BAD BOY

In hundreds of cities in this country, "Peck's Bad Boy," which is billed for Sixth Street [illegible] Tuesday, October 17 holds the record for attendance. There is hardly a theatre goer in any community who cannot recall some time or other when this favorite comedy with music has not [illegible] up" in the local play house. Particularly true is this of [illegible] performances, for "Peck's Bad Boy" is without an [illegible] a play for the children. [illegible] favorite has not been [illegible] this locality for some time [illegible] its return will be welcomed [illegible] many people who remember [illegible] enjoyable evenings. It [illegible] renewed and refreshed [illegible] addition of twenty new songs and dances and the entertaining company is the best which has ever been engaged for the play.

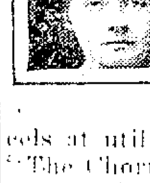

THE SPOILERS

A dramatized novel, a romantic drama and a play of vigorous [illegible] "The Spoilers" which the Chicago Stock Company will present Saturday afternoon will be assured a hearty welcome. It will then be given its first production in this city, and will add still another to the many plays that are here being introduced for the first time in the theatregoers of Coshocton, by this popular stock company.

It tells the exciting events the gold seekers of 1890 braved to seek wealth and protect their claims in that Northern country. Not a mythical story but containing all the [illegible] of romance, and from the pen of Rex Beach, who is considered today the foremost writer of Western fiction, and the author of "The Barrier," "Going Some," "The Silver Horde" and many others. Mr. Beach was one of the first to organize a party to explore Alaska for its valuable qualities.

The play affords an excellent opportunity for good stage settings, plenty of comedy, a square dance and many other amusing features.

"THE CHORUS LADY"

George Ade is not the only inkslinger of stage language. There is James Forbes who equals him at writing the idium of Toughland and excels at utilizing it in a play. His "The Chorus Lady" which comes to the Sixth Street Theatre on Monday, October 16 is full length play as emotional as Mrs. Fiske or Mrs. Carter, but with a fluent diction still defiant of the dictionaries. Patricia O'Brien doesn't kiss promiscuously, however, even though she is a chorus girl, for she is wise to the game, cuts the Johnny joker out of the pack, deals the cards straight and plays them to win out with a husband for keeps. The play comes here with a record of one whole year in New York, nine months in Chicago, six months in Boston and with practically the same cast that appeared in those cities.

STOCKHOLDER HAS COMPLAINT

Committee to Probe Steel Trust Labor Conditions Has Not Reported.

New York, Oct. 11. Charles M. Cabot of Boston, the stockholder in the United States Steel corporation who demanded at the company's last annual meeting on April 17 that a committee be appointed to investigate a magazine story about the steel corporation's labor conditions, issued a statement in which he complained that the committee appointed by Judge Gary to do the investigating has not yet handed in its report, due Oct. 1. Mr. Cabot's statement concludes:

"Nearly six months after this committee's creation by vote of the stockholders, and six days after it was ordered to report, the best information I can get from Chairman Gary is that he 'hopes' that it will soon get to work."

In answer to Mr. Cabot's statement Judge Gary had this to say:

"The committee was named soon after the annual meeting. Some of the appointees accepted, others declined. I have had some difficulty in securing a committee of good men, as considerable work is involved. The full number has lately been obtained and has been requested to organize; and I believe they will do so within a short time and on the return of one of the members, who is away from home."

USE CARE IN STORING GRAINS

SHOULD BE KEPT FREE FROM DAMPNESS AND VERMIN TO PREVENT DAMAGE.

KILL WEEVIL BY FUMIGATION

Carbon Bisulphide Is Best for This Purpose—Is Oily Liquid That Can Be Bought at Drug Store.

Every farmer should exercise the utmost care in the storage of his grain whether it is to be used for seed or feed. The principal things to be considered in the storing of grains are freedom from dampness, vermin and insects. The ease of handling the grain is also a very important factor in storing grain. Wheat and corn, when in a dry condition, are not injured by cold, but grain-loving insects can not thrive at low temperatures. The more exposed the granary the better the protection against insects, and the larger the bulk of grain and the less exposure the less will be the injury from insects.

It is advisable to store grain in bins so constructed as to have smooth walls, and these preferably painted, so as to offer the least opportunity as a lodgment for insects.

From time almost immemorial the farmer has been troubled with vermin such as rats and mice. The granary should be built so that it offers no chance for them to hide. Rats and mice enjoy secluded places. The granary should not have open air spaces simply because this is just the sort of place where vermin hides.

Wheat should never be stored in bags where it can be avoided. It is always advisable to store soy beans in bags because there is usually a great loss due to heating if they are stored in bins of great depth.

Granaries should be thoroughly cleaned out and fumigated before putting new grain into them. If the granaries are infested with the grain weevil or the Angoumois grain moth, the only way to get rid of them is by fumigation.

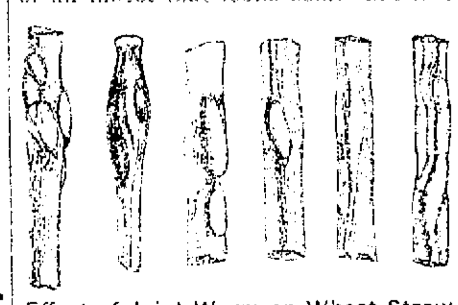

Carbon bisulphide, which can be bought at any drug store, is the best agent for fumigation. It is a heavy, oily liquid, and the fumes are deadly poison if breathed in excess. It vaporizes readily when exposed to the air, and, being heavier than air, it settles to the bottom of the bin. Great caution should be taken when handling it to keep fire away, as it is highly inflammable. About 1 pound of carbon bisulphide is sufficient for 100 bushels of grain. The granary should be airtight and the liquid poured in shallow pans and placed on the surface of the grain. The fumes being heavy will penetrate downwards through the grain and destroy all insects present.

THE WHEAT JOINT WORM

A number of inquiries about the wheat joint worm have been received by this department. It may be of general interest to give a little information concerning this insect which often causes considerable loss to the wheat grower.

The wheat joint worm is the larva of an insect that looks somewhat like a small winged black ant. The adult female lays her eggs in the young wheat plants in the spring after several joints have become exposed. The eggs hatch, and the young grubs, forming cells, feed in the walls of the stem, reaching maximum growth by the time the straw becomes fully hardened and ripe.

The effects of this insect are seen in the abnormal growths of the straw. The straw becomes bent or twisted; there are enlargements and hardening of the stem, causing it to break over. The affected stalks either fail to head out or bear aborted heads. In threshing, the hardened portions of the stem break up into pieces that go into the grain.

For the control of the wheat joint worm, burning the stubble is generally considered the most effective. However, this is not always practicable on account of young clover. In this case it might be well to rake the stubble field and burn the loosened stubble that is thus gathered up. The straw should be worked through the stable and into the manure, which should be piled up and allowed to heat and decompose. While there will be some loss of nitrogen by this method of handling manure, and it is not generally good practice, in this case it may be advisable. The Ohio experiment station recommends burning the stubble in the spring before clover starts its growth, the sowing of a variety of wheat adapted to the locality and using plenty of fertilizers to induce strong, vigorous growth.

HOME BURGLARIZED IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

Residence of Mr. Poppe on Elm St. Ransacked while Family is at Fair Thursday--Silverware is Taken

While members of the family were attending the county fair Thursday afternoon, the home of Mr. Proppe, manager of the calendar department of the American Art Works, on Elm street, was entered by a sneak thief and a quantity of silverware stolen. The thief gained access to the home by raising a window of the dining room, off an alley and practically every room was thoroughly ransacked. Fortunately no money was kept in the house.

House Topsy Turvey

The theft was committed between the hours of 3 and 4:30, this being the time the family was absent from home. Mrs. Poppe became suspicious upon her return as soon as she saw all the window blinds, which she had left up, drawn. She went to the home of Mrs. Merle Vail, next door and accompanied by Mrs. Vail, entered the house. The rooms were found in a topsy turvy condition, drawers of the china closet strewn about the dining room and all beds torn about in an evident search for money.

Only Solid Silver

The fact that only solid silver ware was taken and some plated goods left behind proves that the thief was not an amateur but knew what he was about. Several silver baby trinkets, which were highly prized, were also taken. The police were notified at once but have no clew on which to work.

Tribune Carriers to Attend Matinee

The Tribune carrier boys will witness "The Spoilers" at the Sixth Street Theatre Saturday afternoon as the guests of Mr. C. H. RossKam, of The Chicago Stock Co., which is holding the boards at the local playhouse this week.

"The Spoilers" is from the pen of Rex Beach, the celebrated American writer and is one of RossKam's strongest bills. It will be the first production of the play ever seen in this city and will doubtless appeal strongly to the matinee crowd.

The Chicago Stock Co. has been a favorite with Coshocton theatre goers for the past nine years and during the four nights of this week, have broken all previous records for "houses." The patronage is well deserved too for there really isn't a weak bill in the repertoire.

"Big" Day of the Fair Draws 17,000 People

Threatening Weather of Morning Keeps Down Crowd, however -- Weather Again Ideal and Everybody Enjoys Big Annual Exposition

Although the threatening weather Thursday morning kept down the crowd below exectations, Treasurer W. M. Smith of the fair board estimated Thursday's crowd at the fair at 17,000. The day turned out to be an ideal one and although the out-of-town people were not as well represented as usual, practically everybody in the city was on the grounds during the afternoon. The special trains on the railroads were fairly well crowded, however, the bad condition of the country roads making many prefer this mode of travel coming to the city to driving.

Another Crowd Today

Those who failed to get in Thursday will doubtless be on hand today, the forecast being for fine weather. Contrary to fairs in other counties, the annual Coshocton county exposition gets better each year in all departments. Never before did the exhibits of all kinds of livestock equal those of this year, both as to number and excellence and the same is true of the arc, farm products, machinery and other exhibits. On the other hand, the fair board is to be commended on the clean amusements along the "midway," and other lines of attractions that appeal to the average fair crowd. There's no doubt of it, everybody owes to himself at least one day at the county fair.

Crowd is Orderly

With but one or two exceptions the big crowd was an orderly one Thursday. The races were, as usual, the principal attraction but the various exhibits were crowded throughout the afternoon. The judges put in a busy day Thursday and have not yet finished their work. During Thursday evening the streets were crowded and the theatres were packed at every performance.

Noted Bandit is Dead

Washington, Oct. 12- Oteri, the Filipino bandit and outlaw, has fallen, to the great joy of the constabulary, who had been on his trail ever since the American occupation.

Even the Spaniards knew this famous chief to their sorrow, for during the last 32 years he had been an outlaw in the island of Samar.

The fact that the Philippine constabulary had killed him was regarded by the governor general as a matter of sufficient importance to warrant a cable report to the insular bureau here.

Samar is the home of Pulajanism a body of religious fanatics whose chief purpose is banditry and outlawry.

Oteri was the last Pulajan chief and Governor General Forbes expresses the belief that his death will bring peace and good order to the island of Samar.

VINEGAR AND SOFT DRINKS COME NEXT

Washington, Oct. 12 - An order for the immediate consideration of the perplexing questions "What is beer?" "What is vinegar?" and "What is a soft drink?" was passed this afternoon by the board of food and drug inspection at a meeting held in the office of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry and chairman of the board.

Vinegar will be the first subject considered by the board. Long hearings recently were held on the subject of pure beer, and hearings have been held on both the vinegar and soft drinks investigations. It is the contention of Dr. Wiley that pure vinegar should be made only from cider and that vinegar made from malt, sugar, molasses, wine and other ingredients should not be branded as pure vinegar.

It is understood that Dr. Doolittle who is the vinegar expert of the department of agriculture holds a similar view and that the board of food and drug inspectors is likely to make a ruling soon in line with Dr. Wiley's views.

Accuses Woman of Theft

Considerable excitement was created on Main street Thursday evening by a woman on her way to police headquarters, in the custody of an officer. A crowd of fully 200 people made up a procession towards the city hall.

The trouble was occasioned by a man, who gave his name as Art Cherry, accusing Mrs. Carrie Stanford of stealing his pocket book. The two attracted a crowd on upper Main street by their loud discussion of the matter and a policeman took a hand. The woman denied the accusation and willingly accompanied the officer to headquarters, where after proving that she did not have the missing purse she was released.

Attends His Sixtieth County Fair

"Uncle Dan" Bareroft attended his sixtieth consecutive county fair yesterday. He was in town bright and early and was telling his friends of the vast improvement the fair has made since the early days of the county.

The first fair he attended was in his seventh year and he has just passed his sixty-seventh milestone. He has never missed a fair in all these sixty years, a record that no other man in the county has ever equalled. He has attended in this time only two state fairs and says the Coshocton county variety is good enough for him.

Petition is Filed Too Late

St. Clairsville, O., Oct 12. - The progressive elements of the county represented by the labor and farming organizations who nominated M. J. Snyder of Bellaire for constitutional delegate, failed to file his petition in time and unless the attorney general rules otherwise he will not be on the ticket. The petition was fully signed, but no one seems to know why it did not get to the supervisors of election till this week. The progressives are put out.

Nathan Shannon of the vicinity of Keene who has been seriously ill for some time was reported slightly improved yesterday.

Woman Slapped by Husband on Street

Brutal Attack Creates Disturbance in Front of Soft Drink Place Thursday Night--Thirsty Crowd Chased

The action of a man, whose name could not be learned, slapping his wife's face, created a disturbance in front of a soft drink establishment in the George Barnes' building on upper Main street Thursday evening. A crowd soon gathered but was dispersed by a policeman, who also ordered the place closed.

Wanted a Drink?

According to bystanders, the man insisted on entering the soft drink parlors despite his wife's objections. He finally turned on the woman and struck her a stinging blow. Several persons, attracted by the controversy, acted as if they were about to take exception to the man's brutality, when an officer appeared on the scene.

Lights Go Out

A short time later, the lights of the place were turned out and the doors closed. It was freely stated that quite an amount of "pop" was disposed of to a thirsty crowd during the evening and the man, who created the disturbance, is said to have been under the influence of liquor.

Beattie Willing to Die

Richmond, Oct. 12. Henry Clay Beattie, jr., sentenced to die in the electric chair on Nov. 24 for the murder of his wife, was visited yesterday by a close friend, William Sampson, who reports him as saying:

"I'll show them how a man should die, i that's what they're waiting for. The electric chair? Bah! What's that! Nothing, I tell you. If the lever on the switchboard is near enough to me, I'll turn on the current myself."

"When a man's got to die, let him die like a man, without a whimper.

"But there's the supreme court. It has still got to act on this case before everything is over."

Driver Not Satisfied with Race

A controversy which assumed a threatening aspect took place in the Judges stand following the finish of the 2:15 pace yesterday afternoon.

Frank James, who drove Maggie G. owned by Bettler of East Akron in the fifth and final heat was given fourth place. He stated that his horse took third and asked the judges to put it up to the people in the grand stand for a decision. The matter was carefully looked into and the decision sustained. Some rather warm language was used before the driver was made to see his error.

BEET SUGAR WILL SMASH HIGH PRICES

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12—That the American public can forever deliver itself from the peril of high sugar prices is the opinion of Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture, who says the great remedy lies in the production of more sugar, and he adds that the increasing production of beet sugar in America is increasing to a remarkable rate, owing to the profit to the farmer and the increasing demand for the finished product.

He said factories could operate to advantage in connection with the dairy industry in that the refuse from the beet sugar plants makes excellent feed for dairy cattle. In his opinion the American farmer can raise enough sugar to supply the world.

THE WEATHER.

FOR OHIO - Fair Friday and probably Saturday.

FOUR SPLENDID EVENTS MAKE UP THURSDAY RACING

Showery weather early Wednesday evening had no effect upon the track and the large crowd which filled the grand stand and lined the course to take in the racing events of the fair Thursday afternoon were treated to some very interesting events although no records were smashed or any phenominal time made.

The enclosure within the tracks held a large number of both local and out-of-town autoists who enjoyed the racing events of the afternoon from their own private "grandstands."

In Straight Heats

The opening race of the day was the 2:20 pace. Elbino Bell, a Wolverine product led everything her own way winning the contest in three straight heats. Mary Direct won second place after a hard fight in which her competitor Barney Clay was making her go some all the time.

A Close Shave

The 2:22 trot with five starters was another clean sweep in three heats for Robert Jones who ran in fine style the entire distance. Doctor Daniels squeezed second place from the race although given a close shave by Stranger Wilkes, who came in third.

The Best Race

The 2:15 pace was probably the best race of the day, it taking five heats to decide the winner. McKinney's First walked away with

IN INDIAN STYLE.

The 2:30 trot which was called on account of darkness afforded much amusement for the spectators in the third and last heat of the day.

The horses got off in excellent shape but as they rounded the first turn began to string out in Indian fashion. On the second lap of the course the six entries were running one directly behind the other. The space between the horses was about the same in each case and it looked like anything but a horse race.

Heinie Lane Too Much for Watson

Henry "Fighting Heinie" Lane of this city, at present spending his vacation in Indianapolis, according to friends indulged in several rounds Monday night before the Indianapolis Athletic club fighting Watson, who has been seen here.

According to word received from Ernest Hook, who is with Lane, the latter gave Watson an unmerciful walloping.

Lane, upon several occasions has appeared in preliminary bouts at local boxing exhibitions, and upon one occasion met Watson here. At that time he was still foreign to the ways of the boxing game as put on by professionals and was completely at Watson's mercy. From the report received here it seems he has improved wonderfully in the art and has got to the the same professional down the line.

FAIR

booth containing the collection of beautiful needlework was a popular place with the women. Every imaginable kind of embroidery, lace and fine needle work found a place here and the aggregation was indeed beautiful. The display was probably larger than in former years with several exhibitors from out of town brought magnificent displays.

The artistic display, hand painted china, sketches in crayon water colors and oil, burnt wood, burnt leather, etc. occupied another large booth and was indeed well worth seeing, many of the entries were works of really excellent merit and the judges found that careful and painstaking work was necessary in their decisions.

School Displays

The Coshocton county school displays was never better. The work of the manual training department showed what the children can do in carpentry, map drawing and every sort of handwork from the "busy work" done by the little folks of the first primary to the beautifully finished furniture made by the high school students in the manual training department. The display of manuscripts papers in history, language, arithmetic, etc. etc. sent in by the West Lafayette Coshocton, Keene and Warsaw schools were all shown in a booth by themselves and made an attractive display in their neatly bound uniform covers. Next year the school display will be classified according to the different grades and the work will be more satisfactorily displayed as a result. As it is the work is of the sort that makes Coshocton proud of the work of her public schools.

In the school display there is to be found a really good exhibition of work done by the art students at West Lafayette College. It is probable too that the college will have a more extensive display next year.

A tandem which can be attached to either of the machines is also shown. It is but the work of a moment or two to attach or detach as desired.

WAGONS SHOULD HAVE WIDE TIRES

TOO MANY NARROW-TIRED WAGONS IN USE ON FARMS AND COUNTRY ROADS.

LIGHTER DRAFT AN ADVANTAGE

Broad Tread Wheels Pull Easier and Do Less Damage to Fields and Highways.

There are too many narrow-tired wagons used on farms and country roads. The following tables compiled from exhaustive experiments on roads and farms prove the beneficial effects of broad tires both in regard to the draft of wagon and rutting of the surface. The narrow tires were one and one-half inches wide and the broad tires six inches wide. The load in each case was 2,000 pounds, including weight of wagon.

1. Dirt Road—

(a) Surface dry, free from ruts and dust. Narrow tires required 137.2 pounds to pull the load. Broad tires required 104.8 pounds to pull the load. Difference in favor of broad tires, 32.5 pounds or 31 per cent.

(b) Clay Road—Surface soft to depth of three or four inches. Narrow tire cut rut five or six inches deep. Broad tires cut rut three and one-half inches deep. Narrow tire required 340.1 pounds to draw load. Broad tire required 490.8 pounds to draw load. Difference in favor of narrow tires 150.7 pounds, or 44.3 per cent.

2. Meadows—

(a) Timothy sod, moist but firm. Narrow tire cut rut three and one-half inches deep. Broad tire cut rut one quarter to one inch deep, doing no perceptible damage. Narrow tire required 420.8 pounds to draw the load. Broad tire required 305 pounds to draw the load. Difference in favor of broad tire, 115.8 pounds, or 38 per cent.

(b) Grass and stubble three inches high, ground soft and spongy. Narrow tire cut rut five to six inches deep. Broad tire cut rut one and one-half to two inches deep, doing no damage. Narrow tire required 569.1 pounds to draw the load. Broad tire required 323.6 pounds to draw the load. Difference in favor of broad tire 245.5 pounds, or 84 per cent.

It will be seen that in only one test out of four did the narrow tire have the advantage in draft, and that was where the surface of the road was soft but the subsurface was fairly hard. The narrow tire cut through to this hard surface while the broad tire remained on top. In all of the tests on meadows and plowed land, the difference was always in favor of the broad tire because on them the load was much more easily drawn and did much less damage to the field. One trial four horses pulled the ton load on narrow tires with an average draft of 876 pounds. Two horses pulled the same load over the same road with an average draft of 379.9 pounds, showing that the same load was less difficult for two horses on broad tires than for four horses on narrow tires. When it is considered that most of the hauling done by farmers is on their farms and not on the roads, this saving in draft is quite an item in the course of a year. When the protection to the field and roadbed is considered, it seems strange that there are so many narrow-tired wagons in use.

HORSE IS A USEFUL ANIMAL

Different kinds of work require different kinds of horses. A horse is of no particular value except for what he can do. To fulfill his mission he must travel. If he can draw a buggy containing one or two persons at the rate of ten miles an hour he is valuable as a roadster. Another horse, that can draw his share of a load weighing upwards of a ton, even though he moves slowly, performs an equal amount of actual work and is just as useful to his owner as is the roadster. Since all horses are valuable because they travel, although at various rates and under widely varying conditions, it will be interesting to make a study of those parts of the horse's body directly connected with his locomotion.

It is not difficult to understand that with the horse as with ourselves, all motion is the result of the action of the muscles. About forty per cent of the weight of an ordinary horse is muscle. All muscles concerned with locomotion are attached to bones, and when they contract they cause the bones to which they are fastened to move. The lower part of the horse's leg is nearly all bone, but the muscles in the body and upper part of the limbs are attached to various parts of the bony construction by tendons and can thus produce motion of the parts located some distance away. The muscles we are discussing, when contracted, are about three-quarters as long as when at rest. The amount of motion produced by the action of the muscles of one of the horse's hind legs, for example, will depend upon the length of the muscles and the length and the relation of the bones to which they are attached. The common idea among students of this subject is expressed in these words: "Long muscles for speed, short muscles for power."

and is an event in which at least one person is sure to get one of the world's best instruments without the cost of a single cent, while a large number of others receive such enormous reductions from the regular standard prices as to make it impossible for like prices to be gotten elsewhere on instruments of equal value.

We want the name of HEFLING to become indelibly impressed upon the minds of every one in Coshocton and vicinity, and our determination to have it so has resulted in this remarkable offer.

THE CONTEST IS AS FOLLOWS

See how many words can be made of the letters in the four words HEFLINGS PIANOS ARE BEST.

The person making the greatest number of correct words will receive a new High Grade Piano absolutely free. This is the first prize.

The next prize will be a Prize Certificate of $150 to apply on your choice of any one of five reliable makes of pianos in our stock, which we will show you when you come in.

Each of the contestants sending in the next five largest lists of correct words will be given Prize Certificates for five dollars less than the preceding prize, or $145 and following this in groups of five, each of the contestants sending in the next five largest lists of correct words will be given Prize Certificates for five dollars less than the preceding prizes, until eleven groups of five have been distributed, the same to apply on any piano you may choose from five reliable makes in our stock, no matter what the price. A diamond ring and gold watch will be given to two contestants having neatest list of words.

Certificates secured by parties already owning pianos, and therefore not wishing to purchase, will be accepted on new Player Pianos. The names of the five reliable makes are known wherever good pianos are sold. You can get the names at our store of these famous pianos.

THE CONTEST WILL CLOSE ON SATURDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1911

All answers should be mailed or delivered to our address, Frew building, Main street Coshocton, not later than that date. The result will be announced to the successful contestants a few days later.

INSTRUCTIONS

See how many words you can make out of the fourteen different letters in the four words, HEFLINGS PIANOS ARE BEST (H-E-F-L-I-N-G-S-P-A-O R-B-T). This is not using the same letter more than once in the same word.

1—All lists must be alphabetically arranged.

2—A word cannot be used more than once, even thought it has different meanings.

3—Do not use plurals.

4—Any word now in use in the English language (Webster authority) will be counted, except proper names, foreign words, names of persons, towns or places, or prefixes and suffixes.

5—State if you now have a piano or organ or piano player.

6—Add your list when completed, and state number of words.

7—Sign your full name and give postoffice address.

8—Give the name of the paper in which you read this advertisement.

Neither Hefling Music Co's employes nor any member of their families are eligible for this contest. To allothers it is entirely open.

NOTE—In order to allay the spirit of skepticism so apt to exist in the minds of many regarding the honesty of purpose and integrity of execution of those promoting a plan of this kind, we would gladly refer those who have recently won beautiful pianos from us in similar word contests, without the cost of anything but a little time spent in making out their lists of words, and with whom anyone is at liberty to communicate.

The fairness of this offer at once appeals to the public, from the well-known fact that the prices on all instruments in this house are today and always have been, marked in plain figures, and those the lowest consistent with quality. Therefore, to all winners of Prize Certificates there is every assurance of a bona fide reduction to the amount of the certificate.

N. B.—Parties entering this contest must do so with the understanding that it is of no material interest to us who gets the prizes, as this is purely advertising on our part. We employ competent and disinterested people to do the judging, and shall do all in our power to see that all contestants are treated fairly, therefore our decision must be considered final. DRUNKEN COWS REFUSE MILK

Chardon, O., Oct. 12.—Dairymen in this vicinity report that their cows get so drunk from eating half-rotten apples that cover the ground in abundance that they refuse to give up milk and can't manipulate their cuds. Recent hard winds have stripped the trees of apples and the fruit has become bruised in falling. This causes fermentation.

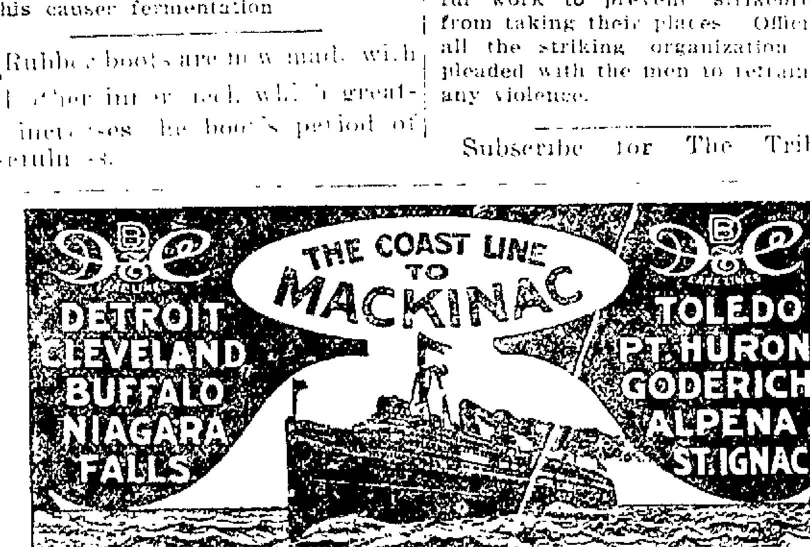

Rubber boots are now made with a leather interior neck, which greatly increases the boot's period of usefulness.

COLUMBUS CENTENNIAL

President Herbst to Address Business and Civic Bodies of State.

Columbus, O., Oct. 12.—As special representative of the Ohio-Columbus centennial commission, Fred W. Herbst, president of the Columbus chamber of commerce has just started on an extended tour of the entire state and will visit each county in Ohio. His mission is to interest the business and civic bodies of the various cities and counties in the coming celebration.

A hasty preliminary survey of the state has convinced Mr. Herbst that the various business organizations throughout Ohio will want to be represented during the centennial. From various cities, such as Cleveland, Dayton, Zanesville, Portsmouth, Newark and Coshocton, he has received indications of interest and has been asked to make a special address before their chambers of commerce and boards of trade. The particular feature of the celebration which is arousing statewide interest is the historical pageant, which will set forth the salient features of the state's history from the days of the earliest records to the present. All the counties will be given an opportunity to take part in this.

Fon du lac Row Settled by Taft

Salem, Ore., Oct. 12.—The Fond du Lac incident, the most interesting connected with the recent travels of a president, was officially declared closed on board the Taft special when it stopped for several hours here, on the way to Sacramento and San Francisco.

And President Taft is looking forward to his visit to Fond du Lac in the insurgent state of Wisconsin with an interest greater than that felt in any other city on his 13,000-mile itinerary.

The indications are that there will be a big time in Fond du Lac on Taft day, Oct. 26. For a while it looked as though the gates of the city were to be closed against the chief executive of the nation, all because they thought it was Oshkosh, when it really was Appleton, that wanted to be treated a little more liberally in the division of the president's time on a busy October day in the home state of Senator LaFollette a rival candidate for the Republican nomination for the Republican nomination in 1912.

In order to give Appleton a little more equitable treatment it was necessary to cut down some of the time allotted to Fond du Lac.

This caused the storm clouds to lower, and while the tempest raged the telegraph wires were kept hot with messages which chased the presidential train all the way from Cheyenne to the Pacific coast.

The mayor of Fond du Lac announced that if Fond du Lac could not have Mr. Taft for two hours and a half they didn't want him at all.

The announcement was made from Fond du Lac several days ago that the city had withdrawn its invitation to the president and would refuse to entertain him, but after an exchange of telegrams it was settled that Fond du Lac will entertain the president for an hour and a half on Oct. 26.

Chester from George Randolph Chester, writer of the "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" stories. BRUTALITIES ARE ALLEGED Discharged Guard Tells Startling Story to the Attorney General.

Columbus, O., Oct. 12. A story of shocking brutality toward prisoners was told Attorney General Hogan by Soloman Shipley of Vinton county, captain of the night guard until he was discharged Oct. 1, when the attorney general resumed his probe into penitentiary affairs.

Captain Shipley testified that for 27 months the present management of the pen had kept an insane prisoner named Webb handcuffed and naked in a cell, with nothing to sleep on except a few newspapers that were tossed in from time to time to cover the stone floor.

Shipley told of alleged cruelties to prisoners who, handcuffed, were strung up to the ceiling and left there from 12 to 24 hours for infraction of prison rules.

He testified that there have been 16 escapes from the pen since Warden Jones assumed the management, and that in nearly every case the escape could have been prevented had a sufficient number of guards been kept on duty.

Randolph Jones, a brother of the warden, Shipley said, drew extra pay for serving on the prison fire watch at night, but was permitted to leave the prison between 8 and 9 o'clock and sleep at home, while other guards on the fire watch were required to sleep at the pen.

Henry Becker of Columbus, to whom all payments for fish delivered at the pen were made, testified that he was not in the fish business and merely acted as "banker" for Michael Joyce, who had the contract for furnishing fish to the pen. All money received from the pen he turned over to Joyce after deducting 1 per cent, Becker testified.

DEATH BY FALLING.

Pain and Fear Seem to Have No Place In the Ordeal.

It is difficult to imagine a more horrible accident than falling with an airship, yet in the opinion of a German psychologist, Fritz Kuhn, death resulting from such a fall is not exceptionally painful, says the New York Evening Post. He argues that it is likely to be met in a state of indifference or even an agreeable half conscious condition of mind. He witnessed the fall of Heim, a fall which lasted a number of seconds, as the airship fluttered to and fro like a piece of paper before the final descent. The distance was about eighty yards. On recovering consciousness after several days Heim remembered only the ascent. Everything between that and his awakening in the hospital was a blank.

Mountain climbers [who] had similar experiences. A French geologist who fell over a precipice [...] that he swooned and never knew what happened. Whymper, on the other hand, remained fully conscious when he fell [on] the Matterhorn. Bounding from rock to rock, he calculated the intervals between the shocks, wondered how long he could stand it, felt no pain and came to the conclusion that death through a fall must be one of the least disagreeable ways of ending one's life. A boy of [...] who fell twenty two yards declared that his only thought was that he might lose his new pocketknife.

At a meeting of the Swiss Alpine club the geologist Heim described his feelings during a fall. His first thought was that now he would be unable to deliver the address he had promised, then he thought of the effect on his family of the news of his death. He wanted to take off his spectacles to save his eyes from being damaged by broken glass. Various scenes from his past life flitted across his consciousness in rapid succession. There was no fear, no pain, but rather an agreeable state of mind, like that which is brought on by soft music.

Howard Newton Clewell is the guest of friends in Chicago this week.

Giants' Speedy Base Runners; Whom Athletics' Catchers will Watch Closely in World's Series

New York, Oct. 12. Many baseball experts here predict that superior base running will win the world's series for the Giants. In this department the New Yorkers have shown themselves so far superior to the Athletics that no less than six of them have taken more extra sacks than the swiftest man on Mack's team, Eddie Collins. The Philadelphia second baseman has swiped thirty six bases. Devore grabbed sixty four, Snodgrass and Murray forty eight each, Merkle and Herzog forty-six apiece and Doyle forty. Fletcher, the only other man in the Giant lineup who can properly be called a base runner, is the only one who hasn't beaten out Collins this year. The experts point out that these records of the Giants were made against such catchers as Red Dooin, George Gibson, John Kling, Bill Bergen, Roger Bresnahan and Larry McLean. Jimmy Archer is left out of this for the very simple reason that the Giants haven't taken many liberties with his arm.

Connie Mack says that the only man successful in stealing bases against the Athletics' catchers the last year is Ty Cobb, and he doesn't figure that many of the Giants are nearly as good as Cobb.

Civil War is Raging in China

Peking, Oct. 12. Between 5,000 and 6,000 Chinese troops in Hankow native city are reported to have mutinied and killed from 200 to 300 Manchus. The rebels have occupied Sah Tze Fu.

Civil war is raging in the province of Hu-Peh. An army of rebels and mutineers from the imperial forces have invested the city of Han-Yang and is sweeping onward over the borders of the province.

Han-Yang is one of the most important industrial cities of the empire, having large iron and steel industries and a population of more than 100,000. The arsenal there has been seized and a part of the city burned. Bands are continually joining the revolutionaries and are being equipped with modern arms taken from the garrisons of the looted towns.

Fighting is in progress about Wu-Chang, the city captured by the rebels, although all the foreigners, including the American missionaries, are believed to be safe under the promised protection of the revolutionary leaders.

The empire faces the gravest crisis since the Boxer uprising. The rebel leaders are issuing proclamations throughout the zone of rebellion declaring that the Manchu dynasty will be deposed and "that Chinese rights will be destroyed." The uprising as planned is sweeping across the frontiers of Kiang Si and Hunan provinces.

The general staff of the imperial army is being rushed to Hankow. Dispatches from Hankow state that thousands of refugees are swarming into that city. They relate harrowing tales of bloodshed. From their reports, thousands have been slain in the fighting and pillaging. The rebels are reported to be shooting down all who oppose their campaign of pillage. Government officials are fleeing from Hu-Peh province.

All Americans Safe.

N. T. Johnson, American consul at Hankow, reports that his latest intelligence advises him that all Americans are safe and that the revolutionary leaders are trying to keep their followers from attacking or insulting foreigners. Three more Chinese gunboats are en route to Hankow. They will constitute a fleet of eight war craft. Part of the vessels will cruise up the Yang-Tse-Kiang river as far as the confluence of the Han Kiang river where the captured city of Han-Yang is situated.

Doings of Knights Templars.

Dayton, O., Oct. 12. While 30 bands played "Onward Christian Soldiers," 7,000 Knights Templars marched the streets of Dayton in a grand pageant. This feature was the crowning event of the sixty-ninth conclave. Forty-four Ohio commanderies were represented in the procession. A ball was given at Memorial hall for the knights and their families. Over 5,000 attended this function as the guests of Reed commandery.

ELECTRIC TRUST IS DISSOLVED

Thirty-three Companies Are Affected by the Order.

Toledo, O., Oct. 12. Declaring that their desire was to comply with all of the provisions of the statutes of the United States, and that they did not know their acts had been unlawful, the General Electric company, the Westinghouse Electric, the National Electric Lamp company and 33 other companies engaged in the manufacture and sale of incandescent lamps and lamp machinery, threw themselves on the mercy of Judge Killets in the federal court here, when they withdrew their answers to the government's suit charging a monopoly in restraint of trade.

The government's suit was filed six months ago in Cleveland. It charged that all of the defendant companies, through contracts and agreements and conspiracies, were restraining trade and commerce in incandescent lamps, and asked the dissolution of the combine. The defendant companies immediately filed answers, denying all of the government's allegations.

After the answers were withdrawn, Judge Killits ruled that the concealment of the interest of the General Electric in the National Electric company was unlawful in that it had been pretending to be a separate, distinct and competing company. The court ordered that the National company and all of its subsidiaries be dissolved, and that the General Electric be enjoined from conducting, except in its own name, the business carried on by it in incandescent lamps.

Expedition Believed Lost.

Rome, Oct. 12.—The American archaeological mission will not resume its excavations in Cyrenaica for the present at least. There is anxiety over the fate of the Italian expedition and there is fear that it is lost. There has been no news of it from the hinterland and messengers are searching for it.

Made Ill By Oysters.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 12.—Miss Erma Whissen has been unconscious since last evening and four members of the family of Mrs. Anna Alman also were made ill due to ptomaine poisoning caused by oysters eaten at a dinner party. Miss Whissen's condition is critical.

Q.—Does God give orders for the weather every day?

Answer.—No; nor does He every day order the stars in their courses, nor the earthquakes, famines and pestilences. At the present time, because of sin, the entire course of nature is permitted to be out of joint, so far as this earth is concerned. Our weather is not ideal at all times; God knows this and permits it as a part of the penalty of death upon Adam's race. Present conditions are not what God would have provided for Adam and his posterity had sin not entered into the world. Extremes of heat and cold, floods and droughts, death dealing tornadoes and cyclones are the world's portion as criminals under death sentence; they are parts of the curse. Christians are not exempted from these, but are required to walk by faith, sharing the world's experiences; yet by this faith and the holy Spirit to recognize themselves as "sons of God without rebuke" (Philippians ii. 15), learning through all life's experiences lessons which will fit them for their future work of glory with Christ in His Millennial Kingdom. God's promise is that then there shall be no more curse—no more dying, no more crying. Instead, the time will come for the restitution of man and his earthly home to the perfection of grandeur of the Edenic condition (Acts iii. 19-21.) Thus God will make the place of His feet, the earth, "glorious." Paradise lost will be Paradise regained.

Concert by The Hussars Enjoyed by Big Crowd

The first entertainment of the season on the People's Lecture Course for 1911-12 was given last evening at Grace church when a splendid audience listened to the Hussars.

The entertainment given by the young men, nine of them, under the personal direction of Mr. Ralph Dunbar, well known to Coshocton audiences, was so well presented and was in every detail so satisfactory to the audience that the management have every reason to be gratified with the evening's success.

"The Hussars" are indeed a versatile company. The songs, readings, military drills, instrumental music were each equally well given and the quality of the work done proved that the performers were capable alike of interpreting popular or classical music to the delight of their audience.

The costuming was an attractive addition to the presentation of the program. The second part of the entertainment was given in college glee club costume, the latter part in the costume of Hussars while the earlier part was given in evening dress. The audience was most enthusiastic in its reception of the company and the satisfaction was general.

The next number on the season's program will be the lecture by Frank Dixon on "The Square Deal," November 8.

DAILY FASHION TALKS

BY MAY MANTON

A DAINTY FROCK OF BATISTE.

FLOWERED and figured batistes are being much used for little girls' dresses this season and here is one that is dainty and charming. It is trimmed with insertions of lace applied on a pointed outline and a very dressy effect is obtained with little labor. The skirt is straight and gathered and, in this instance, it is trimmed with a straight flounce that is pointed at the upper edge, but it can be made without the flounce and finished with a hem only, or with a hem and trimming, as liked. The blouse portion is made with yoke and plastron to which the full pieces are joined. This dress is made without a collar and with short sleeves, and the style is a very charming as well as fashionable one, but there may be girls who like a collar and long sleeves, and the dress can be finished in either way. Suitable materials are many. All the pretty thin washable materials are quite appropriate and many simple silks are used. For more dressy occasions, plain white is always desirable and white muslin of any kind, trimmed with lace, makes an exceedingly dainty frock. If still greater elaboration is wanted, a second row of insertion can be added above the bands on blouse and skirt and the lower edge of the flounce can be finished with straight rows. The yoke with plastron can be cut from fancy material too, if liked, and all-over embroidery and all-over lace are well adapted to such use. White dotted muslin with the yoke with plastron of eyelet embroidery would be charming. White or colored crêpe de Chine with yoke with plastron of white baby Irish would make an attractive dress.

6993 Girl's Dress with Straight Gathered Skirt, 10, 12 and 14 years.

For the 12 year size will be required 6½ yards of material 27 inches wide, 4½ yards 36 or 3¾ yards 44, with 8 yards of banding to trim as illustrated.

A May Manton pattern, No. 6993, in sizes for girls of 10, 12 and 14 years of age, will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

RADIUM RAYS.

Their Velocity the Highest Known Speed of Matter In Motion.

The earth travels in its orbit round the sun nineteen miles a second. The sun itself, like all the other stars, has its own proper motion through space. Some authorities have calculated its speed at twelve miles a second. A few stars move more slowly than this, others much more rapidly. Arcturus maintains a speed of not less than 100 miles a second, and the star called "Groombridge 1830" travels 150 miles in the same brief time.

But the speeds of the heavenly bodies are slow compared with the motions of the tiniest known particles of matter. The sun would seem to stand still could we compare its velocity with that of the radium "rays." These radiations are produced by successive explosions of tiny groups of the fragments of radium. The "alpha rays," being themselves infinitesimal fragments of matter, are thrown out with a velocity of perhaps 12,000 miles a second. The "beta rays" travel still faster.

In the emanations of this wonderful radium we find the highest known speed of matter in motion. At 12,000 miles a second it would take little more than two seconds for a particle of matter to travel all the way round the earth. Look at your watch and note the duration of two seconds; then imagine that in a chariot drawn by "alpha rays" you have been round the world. There is hardly time in two seconds for you to think the journey.

The highest measured speed, however, is not the speed of matter, but the speed of that etheric vibration which we call light. And light travels at the rate of 186,000 miles a second.—Youth's Companion.

Cause For Going.

"Where are you going?"

"I don't know. I'm just going."

"If that's the case why go?"

WE ARE MISSING THE POINT

Said Edmonds, campaign manager for Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin: "If a man hasn't got plenty of money, he'd better keep out of politics." Back in the nineties it is said that former Governor Bushnell spent more than $70,000 within the space of two years to further the political fortunes of Foraker.

Many times that amount are spent yearly by the Republican machine in Pennsylania to keep things lined up properly in the old Keystone commonwealth. Both Fairbanks and Hemenway are credited with spending vast sums in Indiana to keep the Hoosier electorate in the straight and narrow path. The Standard Oil company has spent enormous sums in Texas, as well as Rhode Island, New York, Ohio and elsewhere to elect the right kind of legislatures.

Everywhere, both north and south, both old parties for the last thirty years have made money their chief, if not their sole reliance, to fight campaigns and win victories. It is charged that the Republican party has been the chief transgressor in this regard, but if it has, it has been because the Democratic party has lacked the cash, rather than the willingness to spend it.

The other night in the opera house Debs, Socialist, declared: "If the Socialist party could carry every city in the state of Ohio for a five-cent piece in the coming election, we would lose the election. If Socialism can't make votes by appealing to men's reason, it will go without the votes."

The trouble with most of us is we can't see far enough forward nor far enough back. We don't use the present in helping us read the future, nor we don't use the past in helping us determine the drift of the present. If we had only the clearness of vision of ordinary bats we should be able to read the meaning of these two trends of modern political thought.

Offices and plunder and graft are not abiding foundation stones on which to rear a political structure. Principles form a much more enduring basis. Our Socialist brethren have caught on to the one great elemental truth in matters of this kind. The party that depends on money for its advancement leans on a rope of sand. If principle and the eternal verities are wanting all the gold in the world cannot prevent inevitable death and disintegration.

SCIENTIFIC AD WRITING

City merchants are inclined to make light of their fellow tradesmen in the country town on account of their newspaper advertising. It is true that most of the big stores in New York, Chicago and others in their class use lots of printer's ink and use it skilfully. They know the value of advertising and they employ clever men and women to prepare their advertising copy.

But city merchants do not have a monopoly by any means in the art of advertising their goods. Many a merchant in the smaller interior towns has ideas as original and spends as big a margin of his profits in advertising his store as the shopman in the big cities. And, conversely, many a big store turns out as dry and uninteresting matter, matter as [illegible] likely to attract the public as the country merchant.

Only recently a [illegible] new store was opened in the upper Broadway district in New York. It was designed to be a landmark among the [illegible] the nation and, perhaps, will be. But on the opening day [illegible] dailies carried page ads set in fine type [illegible] as the type itself, every thing in that store, [illegible] stairways, the [illegible] from which the water was drawn, the [illegible] of which the water was drunk, the [illegible] were displayed, as well as the goods themselves.

[illegible] Who ever read it? What was [illegible] in having it all set up in type? Way [illegible] stories, or [illegible] "Wild West" detective stories, that would have pleased both man, woman and child, whereas the stuff they ran lay as waste as the sands of the desert. A glance at [illegible] page ads made one think that the merchants [illegible] in Coshocton know a blamed sight more about the seductive art of ad writing than some of the boasted lords of the commercial and mercantile world down in New York City.

In honor of her great [illegible] Spanish-American war, the old battleship Oregon is to be the first vessel to pass through the Panama canal. It would be equally fitting if the Oregon were to be the last battleship to pass through the canal.

A Philadelphia mule kicked a Philadelphia negro in the head. The Philadelphia negro got a slight scalp wound, while the mule sustained a broken leg and had to be shot. Thus, one by one the hopes of the white race wither and fade away.

The Lorimer inquiry is now on again, running as a [illegible] traction to the Stephenson investigation. For real up-to-date scandal either one has an edge on Gaby Deslys and her [illegible] trunks full of low-necked cloth[illegible].

The Wise Guy says: the man who fails to lavish the usual amount of sentimental stuff on his best girl may be saving some of it back until after they're married.

Labor Will Fight Capital

Los Angeles, Oct. 12. The issue between capital and labor was fairly determined in the trial of James B. McNamara, despite the utterances of counsel for both sides deprecating the attempt to make the national industrial situation a factor in the determination of a murder charge growing out of the demolition of the Los Angeles Times building.

The ruling of Judge Walter Bordwell that both sides are within their legal rights in determining the attitude of veniremen toward the union labor movement is capable of only one interpretation that the widest latitude shall follow examination of prospective jurors. As a result of this it is probable that a jury will not be sworn for three months.

Recess For Columbus Day.

Today Columbus day is a legal holiday in California, and there was no session of court. Counsel for both sides spent the day in an attempt to develop the affiliations of the men remaining on the initial venire.

It is certain now that Ortie McManigal will be the crux of the entire situation. Had John McNamara been the first defendant tried, then conspiracy would have been an absolute issue, and the National Erectors' association would have been the chief factor. But Detective William J. Burns, who is directing the securing of evidence for the state, sent word that he was unable to get a complete chain of evidence involving John. He suggested that James McNamara be placed on trial, emphasizing his belief that his conviction would bring in much new evidence, especially regarding the alleged motive for the dynamiting.

Attorney Darrow, chief defense counsel, discussing the case, said: "We know the state moved to try James McNamara first because it realized the necessity of laying a foundation for an attempt to prove the statements by Detective Burns. They will not be able to do so. With the perfect defense it would still be impossible to connect organized labor with the Times explosion."

Veniremen Locked Up.

Eleven veniremen were locked up today while careful canvasses by both sides developed that all of them are obnoxious to one side or the other. It is certain that not a man now detained pending final decision will remain after the right of peremptory challenge has been exercised.

The attorneys for the defense are jubilant over Judge Bordwell's ruling that prejudice against members of labor unions is just cause for dismissal from the jury. The defense had not expected such a ruling and predicts that it is certain to help their side before a jury is completed.

Now that the trial is actually in progress, feeling is growing more intense here, and there is a strong fear that it will affect all incoming venires.

TURKS ARE SUFFERING FROM HUNGER

Pitiful State [illegible] Acute Distress Among the Troops.

Tripoli, Oct. 12. It seems probable that the recent [illegible] was the outcome of combined efforts on the part of the Turks to destroy the machinery of the water supply of Tripoli at the pumpin[g] [illegible] at Boumeliani Springs. The Italian marines occupied a good position in a trench dug low in the ground. The Turks numbered about [illegible]. They had three field guns. The [illegible] opened fire on the enemy when they were about 300 yards distant. The Turks' reply was ineffective as it was too high. The Italians assert that they did not lose a man. There were three Turks killed and one wounded man was found, though [illegible] was evidence that others wounded had been carried off the field by their comrades. The Turkish soldiers were regulars and they threw [illegible] much impedimenta as they [illegible] their retreat.

The Italian [illegible] now holding the whole line of [illegible] posts, and have even advanced [illegible] directions. The Italians [illegible] the military occupation of Tripoli [illegible] now absolutely secure, and the population of Tripoli is said to [illegible] at the prospect of a change [illegible] government.

Prominent Turks declare that they are quite safe [illegible] Tripoli will soon be placed under the protection of Italy and the fighting be ended.

It seems impossible that there should be anything in the nature of resistance to the Italians on the part of the Turks. There are pitiful stories of [illegible] distress among the force that is now encamped in the desert, scarcely [illegible] hour's ride from the city. The men are said to be almost without food [illegible] water and suffering from [illegible] heat. Soldiers who [illegible] city in a deplorable state [illegible] their comrades are [illegible] from hunger and thirst [illegible] able for the troops [illegible] and it was declared [illegible] are existing on one [illegible] morning and one at [illegible] few sips of water.

It is said [illegible] hat racks in the hotels [illegible] York are owned and op[erated by] the "tipping trust."

SEN. DAVIS AGAIN WEDS

Takes Miss Carter of Ozark, Ark., as His Second Wife.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 12. Jeff Davis, United States senator from Arkansas, and Miss Lela Carter, of Ozark, Ark., were married today. The ceremony took place at Ozark. The bride is the daughter of Dr. W. A. Carter, one of the oldest and best known citizens of western Arkansas. Senator Davis and his bride left immediately after the ceremony for an extended trip on the Pacific coast. The senator was a widower.

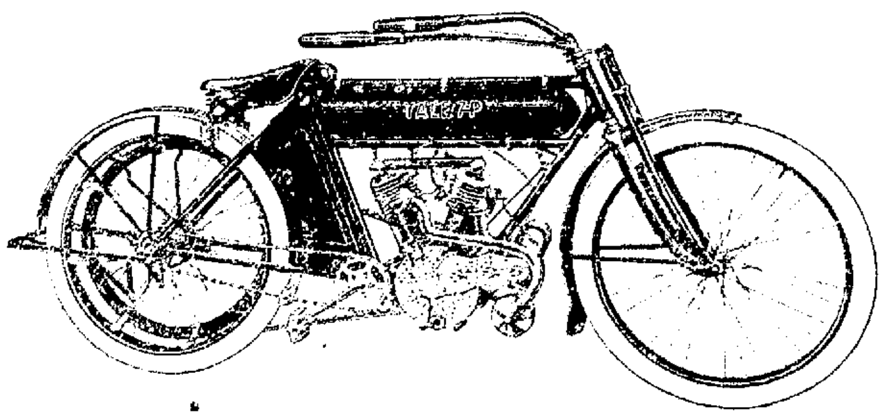

St. Cuthbert's Comb.

It was formerly the custom to bury combs with the dead, which clearly shows that these articles of the toilet had sacred significance in the eyes of the people of the old world. The comb buried with St. Cuthbert and now preserved at Durham, England is of ivory and measures six and one-quarter inches in length and five and one-half inches in width. It is ascribed to the eleventh century and has a double row of teeth, divided by a broad plain band, perforated in the middle with a round hole for the finger.

The Usurped Power of the Courts

FREQUENTLY laws which are meant to benefit the public are declared to be unconstitutional by the courts. The courts have no right to do that. That is, the Constitution gives them no such right. And it is the Constitution which the courts say must be kept inviolate when other people are concerned. Congress once forbade the Supreme Court to pass upon a law's constitutionality — and the Supreme Court didn't—the Supreme Court then admitted that it had no right to overrule Congress. Congress can do the same thing now. The story is in Pearson's Magazine for October. You ought to read it. This usurpation of power by the courts is the most important thing for you to know about. It is all being explained in Pearson's Magazine. Read these stories. They are full of facts which you ought to know. In the same magazine is another story to which you should give serious thought. Half the sickness which comes to your family is unnecessary. Think of that! A National Bureau of Health could prevent unnecessary sickness, yet it is strenuously opposed. Here's the whole story of what a health bureau could do, and why some people oppose it. Another article explains why the price of coffee increases. If you drink coffee, read this story if you read nothing else. Coffee prices haven't quit going up yet. If you want entertainment only, look at this magazine. Just look at it! Eight complete stories of romance, mystery and adventure, besides some articles built only for entertainment—another of the famous Apaches of New York, for instance. These tales of New York's gun-fighters are the best that Alfred Henry Lewis ever told.

THE FOUR HENRYS

One of the Most Dramatic of the Legends of France.

A MEETING AND A WARNING.

The Dire Prediction That Was Hurled at Them After a Duel In the Dark and the Way the Fateful Prophecy Became a Matter of History.

Of all the French historical legends there is none more dramatic than that pertaining to "the four Henrys." The tradition is that on a wintry night as the rain fell in torrents an old woman who passed in the country for a witch and who inhabited a miserable cabin in the forest of St. Germain was aroused by a loud knocking at her door. She opened it and saw a cavalier, who requested hospitality. A scrap of cheese and a morsel of black bread were all she set before him.

"I have nothing more," said she. "See, here is all that tithes, taxes, subsidies and other extortions have left me to offer distressed travelers, besides which my neighbors call me a witch and rob me of the produce of my little farm."

"Tis a cruel situation," said the young man, "and were I king of France I would suppress the taxes."

"God hears you," answered the old woman.

The cavalier was about to commence his repast when a fresh knock at the door restrained him. Again a gentleman, drenched with rain, demanded shelter.

"Is that you, Henry?" said the one.

"It is, Henry," replied the other.

The old woman discovered from their conversation that they belonged to a numerous hunting party led by King Charles IX. and that they had been dispersed by a storm.

"My good woman," said the second comer, "have you naught else to offer us?"

"Nothing," was the reply.

"Well, then," said the other, "we must divide it."

The first Henry gave signs of refusal; but, observing the resolute eye and haughty bearing of the second, he replied in a tone of chagrin:

"Let us divide it, then."

They sat down opposite each other, and one had already commenced cutting the bread with his dagger when a third blow was struck at the door. Again a young nobleman entered—again a Henry. The meeting was most singular.

The first Henry endeavored to hide the bread and cheese. The second replaced it on the table and set his sword by his side. The third Henry smiled.

"What! Will you spare me none of your supper, then?" said he.

"The supper," said the first Henry, "rightly belongs to the first comer."

"The supper," said the second Henry, "belongs of right to him who knows best how to defend it."

The third Henry colored and said haughtily, "Perhaps it rather belongs to him who knows best how to win it."

At these words the first Henry drew his dagger, the two others their swords. They had scarce made a few passes when a fourth blow was heard at the door. The portal opened. A fourth Henry appeared.

At the sight of the naked swords the last comer drew his own and, taking the weakest side, fought vigorously.

The old woman, frightened, hid herself, and it was well that she did, for the swords dashed to pieces everything that came in their way. The lamp fell, was extinguished, and all four fought in the dark. The noise of the swords lasted for some time, but gradually died away. Then the old woman crept out of her hiding place, relit the lamp and beheld the four combatants stretched on the floor. She examined them. Fatigue had overpowered them more than loss of blood.

They rose up one after another, ashamed of what they had done. "Come," said one: "let us now cup with good humor and without quarreling."

But on looking for the supper they perceived it lying on the floor, soiled with their feet and stained with blood.

The old woman, sitting in a corner, fixed her dark eyes on the authors of the mischief.

"Why do you look at us in that manner" demanded the first Henry.

"I see your destinies written in your foreheads," answered the injured woman.

The second Henry harshly commanded her to reveal them. The two others laughed outright.

With outstretched arms the old woman replied: "As you all four have been united in this cabin, you will all be reunited in one and the same destiny. As you have trodden underfoot and soiled with blood the bread of hospitality, you will trample underfoot and soil with blood the power of which you will partake. As you have impoverished and devastated this dwelling, you will devastate and impoverish France. As you have all four been wounded in the dark, you will all perish by treason and a violent death."

These four Henrys were the four heroes of the league—two as its chiefs and two as its enemies—Henry of Conde, poisoned at St. Jean d'Angely by his wife; Henry of Guise, assassinated at Blois by the Forty-five; Henry of Valois (Henry III.), assassinated by Jacques Clement at St. Cloud; Henry of Bourbon (Henry IV.), assassinated at Paris by Ravaillac.—New York Press.

Nothing is politically right which is morally wrong.—O'Connell.

A daughter was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nelson of Plainfield.

THE THEATRE

"THE GENIUS AND THE MODEL"

A very funny comedy is to be presented.

It is a good [illegible] better than [illegible] Chicago Stock Company [illegible] "The Genius and the Model" is the [illegible] of health and youth.

[illegible] at the Sixth Street Theatre tonight. This will be the first time [illegible] that Nat Goodwin and his former wife Edna Goodrich [illegible] ever been offered at popular prices.

Norbert E. Dorente will play the Goodwin role and it is one that be suited to him. Clara Belle Price will be seen in the part of the Model, who unlike a common stage connection, possesses morals and breeding. The roles of the woman who loves [illegible] for his all [illegible] talent, and the trinity of artists, the painter, the [illegible] offer excellent chances for the members of the stock company.

"The Genius and The Model" was written by Wm. and Cecil them so many times in the past. The first act is played in the [illegible] by the old German, Schultz, who is the butt of most of the Bad Boy's good natured pranks, and the second act represents a family picnic which would have been orderly [illegible] had it not been for the lively scion of the house of Peck.

The play is primarily a comedy and has been written only with the intention of making people laugh. It has, however, a tuneful musical setting supplied by the various members of the company, all of whom are clever vaudeville entertainers.

THE CHORUS LADY A DECIDED HIT

As a forerunner of [illegible] of the [illegible] theatrical productions booked for Washington during the 1911-12 season, the Chorus Lady, a snappy comedy by James Forbes and used as a successful vehicle by Rose Stahl, was presented more than acceptably yesterday at the Nixon. Both afternoon and evening performances were given and the turnouts, from the class of patrons and numbers, demonstrated that plays of pronounced success are popular in Washington.

In the role of the Chorus Lady, the entire play centered about Miss Edith Wall, as Patricia O'Brien, whose ability to determine at a glance the "goods" and the "phony" made the play and also brought about the usual happy culmination. Miss Wall's interpretation of the part was all that could be desired. The slangy talk was put across with the proper effect, while in the semi emotional parts she was equally good. She made a decided hit. There was plenty of action plenty of fun and disorder of such a room detail lady more than pleased. The cast of the Chorus Lady is composed entirely of "live ones," but Miss Wall's work naturally stood out above the rest.—Washington, (Pa.) Advocate.

THE AUTHOR OF THE SPOILERS

Rex Beach, the author of The Spoilers, is big broad-shouldered and young. He had accomplished much in his short life, a college term, a student of law five years in Alaska, in business in Chicago, and then a writer of novels and plays. It was while he was studying law that he thought of taking a trip to Alaska. "One Winter" he says with a laugh, I lived on six dollars. Oh, of course I got food and clothes for work I did but all the actual money that passed through my hands was six." On the occasion trying to see all the sights and go through all the experiences that Alaska had to offer he nearly lost his life on a trip from Seattle to Nome. It was bitter cold, and going through the [illegible] wind was blowing a gale. Finally they managed to get through but Mr. Beach never wants to try anything of the kind again. He prefers to write "The Spoilers," "The Barrier," and "The Silver Horde," and to gain fame and wealth out of them.

[illegible] Chicago Stock Company present "The Spoilers" at the Sixth Street Theatre Saturday afternoon.

"THE CHORUS LADY

[illegible] "The Chorus Lady" which [illegible] to the Sixth Street Theatre Monday, October 16, instead of [illegible] "dressing room" usually [illegible] by playwrights. Mr. Forbes has chosen one [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] Theatre New York City, [illegible] which is devoted to the production more a play which has delighted of big musical shows. In the scenic detail one notes a complete reproduction of the characteristic disorder of such a [illegible] that may be overlooked by the average layman, but which exists [illegible] creating atmosphere. In the center of the stage is the long stationary washstand "made practical" to use a theatrical phrase, or in other words supplied with hot and cold water. During the action of the scene, it is used by four girls, a bit of natural stage business adds materially to the general effectiveness of the act. On the walls are signs, "Silence," "Positively no smoking," and "Kindly turn off the light when leaving the room,"—orders that are never obeyed and that are the source of constant friction between the stage manager and the "ladies of the chorus." On the ceiling are to be seen the water pipes, and in one corner is a very excellent imitation of the steam pipes for the heating apparatus. Other factors that help to increase the illusion is the hum of voices heard before the rise of the curtain, the constant movement of the girls in and out of the dressing room, the robing and disrobing, the borrowing of each other make-up, the use of hand lotion, rouge, lip-salve, eyebrow pencils, the voice of the stage manager excusing the late arrival of the show girl "with money in the show," expostulating the next moment with Patricia, a humble member of the chorus "without a pull," the cry of the call boy, "half hour," "fifteen minutes," "Overture," "Acts on" and as the curtain falls, the sound of the girls singing a bright jolly chorus, in contrast to scene of Patricia's grief.

PECK'S BAD BOY

A STRONG BILL

The Chicago Stock Co. made another hit at the Sixth street theatre Thursday evening with their new love drama "The Governor and the Boss."

The "house" was by far the largest of the week.

George Flowe as Senator Timothy McCormick was splendid as the boss of the political machine, while Norbert Dorente as the independent candidate for governor and Clara Belle Price as the governor's private secretary also did highly creditable work.

The play for this evening will be "The Genius and the Model" in which Nat Goodwin, and Edna Goodrich starred.

Senator's Daughter will Wed

George Middleton [illegible] Marry Miss LaFollette at Washington.

Miss LaFollette is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and has been on the stage three years. The marriage will take place at an early date at her father's Washington home.

[illegible] Murder.

Akron, O., Oct. [illegible] Dominic Fritz, alleged murderer of August Darwoski, who passed away suddenly at the county infirmary, was arrested and formally charged with murder. It is alleged that he caused the death of Darweski by kicking him in the head while the two were engaged in a fight in a Barberton, O., saloon.

Burglar Rich Haul.

Akron, O., Oct. [illegible] A masked burglar got away with a roll of bills containing [illegible] home of Dr. F. C. Reed. Miss Josephine Reed, a daughter, was awakened by the burglar in her room. She was too frightened to move or give the alarm until the intruder had gone.
